'MIKE' PEARSON SAYS:

Syria Red Plot And the 'Bomb'

By LESTER B. PEARSON
(Copyright 1957. All rights reserved.)

Americans—and to some extent Canadians—tend to think in terms of total and decisive result; of unconditional achievement, whether it is the moving of a mountain, the solution of a political problem or the winning of a war.

The American experience up to 1946 seemed to establish the validity and the value of this approach. As applied to contemporary international problems, however, it has its limitations. It is not easy, now, to find clear-cut solutions for issues which do not present themselves in a clear-cut way; especially those raised by the menace of the international Communist conspiracy.

expresses itself as conventional military aggression we at least know where we are, and we have methods to deal with it.

In the future, however, we are more likely to be confronted with aggression of a different type. The U.S.S.R. may once have been tempted to strike openly by military means against Western Europe. If so, that temptation must have been reduced, if not removed, by the formation of NATO and by the certainty of swift and devastating retaliation by the U.S. strategic air force. In this respect, nuclear power remains essential for deterrence and defence.

Savage Hatred of Neighbor

While the danger of this kind of aggression has diminished, that from other forms, more difficult to detect and perhaps to defeat, has increased. There is certainly no reason to believe yet that the ultimate objectives of international Communism have changed, or that its threat to peace and freedom has ended. But now the expression of that threat has altered and methods are being followed which involve conflict short of war.

In dealing with these methods, the threat of massive nuclear retaliation will not be of much help because the attack will be massive only in a political sense. You cannot defeat political aggression by the use or threat of an atom bomb. The implications of this truth—for defence as well as diplomacy—are important.

Syria is a good example of what I mean. It is fertile ground for aggression by subversion, and also for the realization of the historic Russian dream of expansion into the Mediterranean. The dominant characteristics of the country are embittered nationalism and "anti-colonialism," a savage hatred of a neighbor, Israel, and political instability. Syrian governments change with bewildering rapidity. Since independence was achieved in 1943 there have been more than 24 changes of government, including five military coups d'etat in the last eight years. Economic progress is slow and poverty is widespread.

The situation is thus ideal for Communist and Soviet penetration, the results of which have now become ominously apparent. Syria may in fact become a Soviet base under Soviet control.

A Syrian military clique seem willing to run this risk, in accepting aid and support from Moscow. True, Syria has

5 Killed, 10 Injured In U.S. Plane Crash

EL PASO, Tex. (UP)—An air force C-124 Globemaster plane crashed and burned two miles from El Paso International Airport today, killing at least five and injuring at least 10.

Canada Airlift Comes to End

LONDON (CP)—Organizers of Air Bridge to Canada officially closed the books today on the largest emigrant airlift in aviation history.

With four week-end flights, three from London Airport and one from Prestwick, the plan sponsored by the Canadian government ended six months of operations involving 207 trans-Atlantic flights carrying 17,600 persons to Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver.

The plane crashed two miles northeast of the international airport while making an instrument landing. It broke up amid the mesquite and cactus of the semi-desert country and burned. Capt. Theodore B. White, public information officer, said the plane evidently did not catch fire immediately and this gave the survivors time to scramble out. The dead were killed on impact, he said.

Eleanor Off to Russia

LONDON (UP)—Eleanor Roosevelt stopped off in London today on her way to Moscow, where she will begin a month's tour of Russia.

Auction Rooms Sealed Off In $50,000 Mystery Fire

Last-minute entries poured into fair grounds at Saanichton this morning for exhibition in annual Saanich Fair, and judging started at 10. One of many well-known exhibitors is Young R. Rhodes, 910 McNaughton, whose huge squash was only one of his many entries in vegetable section.

CANAL CLOSURE THREATENED

CAIRO (UP)—A Cairo newspaper said today that Egypt would close the Suez Canal if any military attack were made against Syria in the current U.S.-Syrian crisis.

The paper Al Shaab, in a front-page article dated today, said it has become clear to special U.S. Middle East envoy Loy Henderson that "the Arab States would adopt a unified stand against any nation that intervened against Syria."

The newspaper added that in such an event Egypt would close the Suez Canal, "completely wiping out the West's remaining interests in the Middle East."

Leaking Boat Holding Own Off Coast

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—The 67-foot fishpacker Cape Perry with 10 persons aboard, was reported holding its own in rough weather after being holed early today in Hecate Strait.

RCAC and U.S. Coast Guard aircraft were searching for the vessel about 20 miles off Cape George, 40 miles southwest of here.

Manager C. E. Salter of the Canadian Fishing Company, owners of the boat, said the skipper, Henry Helin reported at 5 a.m. the boat had developed a leak during a 45-mile-an-hour gale.

He said later reports indicated the crew were holding their own with pumps but weather conditions were still bad.

At least 12 fishing craft in the area reported they were searching for the Cape Perry.

The RCAF search and rescue centre in Vancouver said a plane was sent to the area as soon as the distress signal was received and a second aircraft left at 11 a.m. to join the search.

LEAD WORLD AS SMOKERS

Canadians Drink Like Fish But Model of Sanctity at Home

LONDON (CP)—A British publication says Canadians smoke like chimneys, drink like fish, rank high among the world's drug addicts and are a model of propriety in their regard for the sanctity of the home and of human life.

What's more, it has the statistics to prove it. A survey published by The Economist shows Canadians smoke 6.9 pounds of tobacco a head every year, barely nosing out United States citizens. The average Briton consumes 4.8 pounds while the Italian gets by with 2.1.

Belgians are the world champion beer-drinkers, putting away 30.8 gallons apiece annually to 23.8 for the average Australian, 21.8 for the New Zealander and 17.8 for the Briton. Canadians rank seventh with 13.3 gallons

Probers Search Ruins for Cause

Provincial fire marshal investigators sealed off the Maynard & Sons Auctioneers building at 733 Johnson today as they sought the cause of an early-morning blaze that caused damage estimated at $50,000.

The fire, which swept through the three-storey brick structure with explosive force, is known to have started in the basement but its cause remained a mystery.

The alarm was turned in at 1:23 a.m. by taxi driver Hugh Campbell, 2540 Blanshard, who was returning to the Quarter Cab dispatch office from a call.

Plate glass windows at the front of the building were blown out and flames billowed through the main floor when firemen arrived.

A second alarm was turned in immediately and all firemen and equipment were ordered to the scene.

Flames were brought under control after a 90-minute struggle led by Chief Frank Briers.

One fireman, Jim Marshall, 1526 Westall, was overcome by smoke and rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was released after treatment.

Arthur R. Roberts, 935 Foul Bay, president of the firm, said today the building was chock-full of household furnishings and antiques.

Most of the damage was done to goods on the main floor and in the basement.

Antiques Gathered for Big Sale

Although firemen kept the flames from spreading to the top floors, a number of items, including pianos, were scorched by the heat.

Mr. Roberts said the building was especially full because last week's auction was called off for a staff holiday.

Modern household furnishings were gathered on the main floor for a sale next Wednesday, and the antiques were accumulated for a sale in two weeks.

The president said Maynards, a long-established Victoria firm, will continue business as soon as temporary quarters are found.

The firm was "very well insured," Mr. Roberts said.

Total value of the contents, most on consignment for sale, is believed to be about $50,000. Interior woodwork of the building was heavily damaged, but the brick frame is undamaged.

The building presented a jumbled scene of charred woodwork, broken glass and blackened furniture to passers-by this morning.

A police constable stood guard at the door, while a fireman, hosed down smouldering chesterfields and woodwork inside.

An assistant provincial fire marshal from Vancouver who had been in Victoria for the convention of fire chiefs this week, took over the investigation.

He ordered that no one be allowed inside until the building has been thoroughly checked over and insurance

B.C. Boy's Road Death First of Holiday Toll

(By The Canadian Press) Hopes rose for a light toll of accidental deaths as Canada's Labor Day weekend began with six accidental fatalities reported in the first 16 hours.

Five of the deaths were in traffic accidents, a Canadian Press survey shows.

In Vancouver a five-year-old boy became British Columbia's first Labor Day weekend traffic fatality. He was Gary Peters, who died in Vancouver General Hospital a few hours after being struck Friday night by a car in Burnaby.

The Canadian Highway Safety Conference has predicted 60

Canadians will die on the streets and highways. Last year 48 were killed in traffic and 31 in other accidents.

At 10 a.m. Saturday both Ontario and Quebec had reported two deaths and Alberta one.

NO PAPER ON MONDAY

The Labor Day holiday on Monday will be observed by the Times staff and there will be no regular issue of the newspaper. Next editions will be on Tuesday.

underwriters had conducted their own investigation.

The fire is believed to have started near a staircase leading from the basement to the main floor.

The building has no furnace room or heating unit which could have caused the fire.

No one is believed to have been inside after the building was closed at 5:30 p.m. A regular police check was made about 11 p.m.

The fire must have been burning some time before it was spotted. The flames came up the stairway and spread quickly through the furnishings and dry woodwork on the main floor.

Firemen pushed their hoses down into the basement and battled through the heat and smoke at the main entrance.

Chief Briers led a crew with hoses up to the roof.

It was feared for a time that the flames would spread to adjoining buildings.

Flames shooting out a side window seared the paint on two automobiles parked in an adjoining lot.

At one time it was believed that 33 cars parked on three floors of the Olympic storage garage next door would have to be moved.

Mr. Roberts said at noon a check of the premises had shown that 16 pianos were beyond repair, but two Steinways were undamaged.

He had praise for the firemen.

"They must have been connoisseurs," he said. "They played their hoses around a pair of valuable Dresden candelabra and saved them."

Face Action

PRAGUE (Reuters)—The Communist party has called for action against a thriving under-the-counter trade in photographs of scantily-clad Western movie stars. The party's weekly review says the photographs are "poor and mostly pornographic reproductions" made in underground printing presses and peddled by tobacconists.

DAISY DOING DARNDDEST IN EGG-LAYING CONTEST

Two more eggs plunked down early today to put Don Campbell's five-hen team, captioned by "Daisy," in the lead of the Saanichton Fair egg race.

The two additional ovoids broke the tie of Friday night between Mr. Campbell's cluckers and those of Morris Sobie and Olive Kingcott.

The leaders now have laid 24 eggs since last Monday. At last count the runners-up had given forth with 22 per team.

The 15 teams competing in the poultry building at Saanichton Fair Grounds, have laid like crazy since the contest started. Count is now over the 300 mark. Final computation will be made Monday, the feature day of the annual fair.

no boundary across which the Red Army can move to rivet Soviet control, as it did in the case of Hungary and Czechoslovakia. A Syrian puppet could not therefore be manipulated so easily or directly as a Kadar. But against this is Syrian chronic unrest and the lure for Moscow of the Mediterranean.

Nearly two years ago, during a talk I had with Colonel Nasser in Cairo, I ventured to point out to him the threat to Egypt from Russian assistance in view of Russia's historic designs on the Mediterranean. He replied that he could control Soviet help so that it would not threaten Egypt's freedom. Perhaps the new Syrian leaders think they can, too. Perhaps they are in for a rude awakening.

It is obvious that Syria as a Communist satellite presents a danger for the West. But it is a far greater danger for Syria's neighbors; Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Israel and Turkey. Iraq and Turkey are members of the Baghdad Pact and Turkey, with Canada, is a member of NATO. So there could easily be a chain reaction to anything that explodes in Damascus.

At this time, the U.S.A. must bear the main burden of defence against these dangers, even though she should not have to operate alone. In recognition of this, American policy—after the events of last autumn—was laid down in what has become known as the Eisenhower Doctrine. It represents the acceptance by Washington of certain responsibilities in the area. But it also limits those responsibilities. It is no Monroe Doctrine for the Middle East.

With Soviet Russia moving into Syria, and the U.S.A. trying to strengthen its position in Jordan and Saudi Arabia, this sector of the cold war front is becoming alarmingly active.

There is no need for provocation or panic. The feeling of frustration and anxiety which insists that "we must do something" should not result in rash action which would play into the hands of hostile Syrian elements and their Soviet backers. This may be what they want and should be avoided while the collective diplomatic strength of the countries most concerned goes to work to head off trouble.

With Soviet Russia moving into Syria, and the U.S.A. trying to strengthen its position in Jordan and Saudi Arabia, this sector of the cold war front is becoming alarmingly active.

There is no need for provocation or panic. The feeling of frustration and anxiety which insists that "we must do something" should not result in rash action which would play into the hands of hostile Syrian elements and their Soviet backers. This may be what they want and should be avoided while the collective diplomatic strength of the countries most concerned goes to work to head off trouble.

Plan Rejection 'Russ Blunder'

Arms Cut Issue Now Used

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some informed United States officials are saying privately that Russia blundered in hastily turning down the Western proposal this week for a first-stage disarmament plan.

Question: "Do you think daylight-saving time should be extended from Sept. 29 to the last Sunday in October in conformity with most other population centres?"

Clearhue McLeod

A. M. Clearhue, druggist, 1059 Hampshire: "I think it would be a good idea. It's pretty nice to have that extra hour and I don't mind getting up early in the morning."

Tom McLeod, RCM fighter, 5790 Oldfield: "It does not make any difference to me. I figure they might as well leave it as it is."

Keller Ahola

Murray Keller, photographer, 315 Langford: "I think it should be extended. The days are short enough now without depriving us of an extra hour of sunlight."

Mrs. W. Ahola, 3856 Cathboro Bay Road: "That would suit me. I like getting up earlier and it gives you a longer day. There's still plenty of sunshine in October and daylight saving would give you a chance to take advantage of it."

Tunnaciffe Miller

Miss L. Tunnaciffe, nurses' residence, Royal Jubilee Hospital: "It doesn't make any difference to me but I imagine it would mean less confusion for train and plane schedules if most cities went off daylight saving at the same time."

Linnea Miller, 2101 Richmond: "Yes, I think it should. Anyone who likes to drive at night or work in the garden could get good use out of an extra hour of daylight in October."

Colwood Camp Area For Fall Fair Site?

The old army camp at Colwood may be used as a site for annual Class A fairs.

Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes said Friday night he will do what he can to permit some public use of the property but it will not be sold.

The property, site of the old Colwood race track, might be needed in the future for military purposes, he said. He added "several representations" had been made to him about the property.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and the Colwood Chamber of Commerce were known to be making such approaches.

"I don't care what group succeeds with Mr. Pearkes, and neither does Mayor (Percy) Scurrell, with whom I have talked about this," said Ald. Edgelow.

"I want to see a Class A fair back in this area. Vancouver Island has none now and hasn't had since the old Willows Park in Oak Bay folded."

Ald. Edgelow said a Class A fair would receive large federal and provincial grants, enabling it to attract excellent stock

No Lay-Offs at Dockyard This Winter, Says Pearkes

No layoffs will occur at HMC Dockyard this winter, Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes said Friday.

In an interview following his inspection of naval installations here, he said: "As far as I can see, there will be enough work this winter to keep the staff fully employed. Our ships on this coast have a heavy program of reconditioning and repairs."

In addition, the shipyards can expect a limited amount of naval work."

The minister also touched on two upcoming changes in the military scene on the Island. "We're going to solve the problem at the Rocky Point jetty by extending it or something of that sort," he said.

NEWER PLANES

Lancasters of the RCAF maritime squadron at Comox will be replaced with more modern sub-hunting aircraft "before too long." He would not elaborate. Regarding the $500,000 jetty at Rocky Point, General Pearkes said studies were under way to determine the "most feasible and economical" method of eliminating ammunition and de-ammunitioning of large ships by lighters.

"It's an engineering problem but I'm sure it can be solved," he said, adding the quip: "I have referred to this jetty that will not jet so often in the opposition that before I cease to be minister of defence, a solution has got to be found or I'll never live it down."

Gen. Pearkes said another problem connected with Rocky Point is being eased.

SAVE ROAD

"We have found a more simple way of supplying the magazine by using the railway more and thus cutting down on the heavy and dangerous explosives traffic that has broken down Metchosin Road. He added that a siding will be built to Rocky Point from the CNR for a complete rail circuit to the magazine.

Consolidation of some activities of the three services would bring greater efficiency and save money for equipment."

Gen. Pearkes referred to such things as public relations staffs. He pointed out that at present some consolidation has been achieved.

The tri-service dental corps run by the army and the tri-service hospital here operated by the navy were examples, he said.

Modest Type of Home First in Loan Program

OTTAWA — Public Works Minister Howard Green has announced the details for homes that may be built with loans from the $150 million government fund.

Green announced the construction details after the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation had made final arrangements Friday with officials of the lending agencies that will be responsible for channeling the $150 million into the economy. The details were worked out during a two-day conference this week between CMHC officials and banking and financial representatives.

The public works minister said the loans, announced last week by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, will be made available for the construction of "the more modest type of home financed under the National Housing Act." He added that the fund should provide enough financing to build an additional 15,000 homes in Canada.

More specifically, the limitations placed on obtaining loans from the new fund were:

Two-bedroom houses with up to 950 square feet of floor area, three-bedroom homes with up to 1,050 square feet and four-bedroom houses with up to 1,300 square feet may qualify for a loan. (The national average for homes financed under the NHA for the first five months of the year was 1,175 square feet.)

Builders may obtain up to 25 per cent of the cost of the home from the government fund, depending upon their financial and physical resources and previous volume of house production.

Rental housing loans will be considered where the construction will provide low and moderate rental housing for the area concerned.

The period of amortization for the loans may be the full 30 years provided for in the NHA if the income of the borrower, or of the purchaser of a builder's house, is insufficient to meet the monthly expenses over the usual 25-year term.

If you are as yet unacquainted with 35-mm photography, let's take a look at some of the reasons behind the great popularity of this type camera. Versatility, always mentioned in the same breath with the 35-mm, is due in part to its small size and its film load. Then, too, there is a wide selection of shutter speeds, a device for precise focusing and a lens, which in most cases, is faster than any larger camera which you might own. Depending on the particular model, there is also a wide range of interchangeable lenses and devices for rapid shooting and reloading, which might contribute to better pictures under certain circumstances. Also, the 35-mm is essentially a fast tool for picture-making, a desirable asset when one considers that many great picture opportunities are fleeting in nature and offer a "now or never" challenge.

If you would like to go into the subject of 35-mm more closely, why not drop in at JUS-RITE PHOTOS LTD., 715 Yates St., for a friendly session? We have a representative selection of cameras, priced as low as $29.95. We will be happy to show you why a 35-mm is the soundest and most satisfying investment you can make. Phone 4-1852.

The Home Owner

THROUGHOUT CANADA, almost without exception, the municipalities are in financial trouble. It stems mainly from four facts.

First, of course, the cost of municipal government has gone up sharply, like everything else in a period of inflation.

Second, most municipalities are growing rapidly, with a rapid growth of the Canadian population, and hence are compelled to finance large new capital costs for streets, sewers and the other essentials of urban life—and this at a time when the cost of borrowed money is high because so many borrowers are bidding for it.

Third, the municipalities are confined largely to real estate as a source of taxation and there is a definite limit to the load that real estate can bear.

The fourth fact explains why the other three are almost insoluble: Municipalities are pressed between rising costs and limited revenues because the national and provincial governments are gobbling up between them most of the money that the taxpayers are willing to provide. From the rich men's tables only crumbs fall to the municipalities.

All this, of course, is the result of Canada's attempt to build so much, so fast.

The Federal Government is involved in gigantic capital costs, the provincial governments are building roads, bridges and other works on an unprecedented scale, and private industry is building factories from one end of the country to the other.

We are building so fast, indeed, that even when we borrow more than a billion dollars a year from other nations we still are living beyond our immediate means and the inevitable result is inflation.

At the same time government, on its three levels, is expanding its non-capital expenditures for public services of all sorts, and the new Federal Government is about to expand them still more.

The municipalities are the victim of this many-sided process and they have little power of self-protection, being only creatures of the provincial governments, strictly limited in their constitutional powers and their financial resources.

Yet the municipalities are highly important in our scheme of things. Most of our people live in them and have all their savings invested in them. Above all, the vast majority of Canadian homes are directly affected, so far as taxation is concerned, by municipal government and the home is hard pressed by rising municipal taxes. This autumn most home owners, in all parts of the nation, will have to pay more than ever for the privilege of living in municipalities.

Clearly there is a limit to the load that home ownership can endure. We talk, and rightly, about the importance of the home not merely as a shelter but as the true base and inner core of our society, but the fiscal policy of the nation, in federal and provincial government, is operating to discourage and undermine home ownership.

Real estate taxes cannot go much higher without grave effects on municipal finance and, more important, on society as built around the family and its home.

So long as national and provincial governments are all raising their budgets every year, as they have been doing without exception, so long as the municipalities are limited to real estate taxes and such grants as the provincial government are pleased to give them, always reluctantly and inadequately, there can be no relief for the home owner.

But the home owner or the renter (who pays his taxes in rent) should remember that it is he who is compelling the national and provincial governments to spend more and more all the time. Last June the nation indicated these demands with exceeding clarity when it elected a national government pledged to expand the national budget in many directions.

The home owner cannot have it both ways. He cannot expect the national and provincial governments to spend more and more and at the same time hope to escape higher real estate taxes since the municipalities have nowhere else to go for money. So long as economy in government is only an empty, ritualistic word for election campaigns Canadians must pay dearly for the right to own a home.

A New Member

THE SUN HAS SET PERMANENTLY on another section of the British Empire. But it has risen with great promise on a new member of the Commonwealth.

Malaya today steps forth as the tenth member of the family of independent nations, the society of equals that looks to a common Crown as the focus of association. Following closely on the entry of Ghana, the new African state, Malaya comes to the Commonwealth with full independence.

It comes at a time of world unrest which is reflected in Malaya's domestic problems. For many months British forces have been fighting strongly entrenched Communist rebels. The latter have now been driven into remoter jungle areas but still present a threat. It will be the task of the new Commonwealth state to consolidate its freedom and ensure its continued independence by guarding against fresh outbreaks.

Like Ghana, Malaya no doubt will soon seek membership in the United Nations, a heavy responsibility for so young a power but an excellent opportunity to bring a new and democratic Asian voice to world affairs.

As Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan said in welcoming Malaya to the Commonwealth, the British family of nations is the greatest force for peace in the world today. Canada, too, will welcome its new partner, and hope for still closer ties in the difficult times ahead.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

Peace and Plenty Harvested From the Seas

THESE words are being written in a cottage on the south beach of Point Roberts a few hundred yards from the log farmhouse where I spent marvelous summer vacations a half-century or more ago. And Point Roberts, as you know, is that silly chunk of land that sticks below the 49th parallel and thus separates itself entirely from the land mass of the United States and is a physical appendage of Canada.

It is a quiet night, dark and still with the silence broken only by the gentle splash of waves on a windless sea fretting the shingle on the shore. About an hour ago a thin, golden horned moon set over Galiano Island where the last purple light of a flaming sunset dipped into the west as night crept across the sky. Now the Milky Way is a pale parabola of a myriad stars like gossamer across the vault of the night sky.

Southwest of where I sit the friendly eye of Mayne Island light winks across 14 miles of water, to show us the entrance to Active Pass. Due south the powerful beam of East Point lighthouse, on the most easterly end of Saturna, throws its radiance across the Georgia Strait.

These sights are commonplace in this favored area but tonight the sea has dug into its amazing repertoire and brought forth another wonder for us to behold and I have only to look up from the keyboard of my typewriter to see it.

It is simply a vast fleet of salmon purse seiners at anchor only a few cable lengths from our beach. Their riding lights reflect radiant pathways of light to the shore as they stretch from Point Roberts light on the west to Lily Point almost four miles eastward. And in this small compass are upward of one hundred big seine boats—the greatest number of fishboats of this type I have ever seen in one area.

Now and then, over the quiet water, one may hear a skipper's voice, clear and loud, as he speaks over his radio-telephone to his cannery or to his wife about some trivial domestic matter.

But for the most part the vessels are silent as the tide swings them in unison on their anchor cables. The hard-worked crew are early to bed so that they may be ready for a day's fishing at first light.

Fifty-odd years ago, long before Point Roberts had been "discovered" and subsequently invaded by hordes of Canadians hungry for a place in the sun and by the sea, this was a beautiful backwater of stump farms whose meagre income were largely augmented by earnings in the fisheries that made an area of considerable importance.

Richest Fishery

Indeed, the reach of shoal water from Boundary Bay to the international line on the west side of Point Roberts was then the richest sockeye salmon fishery in the world.

But the sight that met our eyes off our lovely, quiet beaches was not of graceful seine boats; it was of rows of pile-driven traps—23 from east to west of Point Roberts—like gigantic picket fences with tared "web" between the Regarding your apt editorial of Aug. 27 "And Another Helping of Stuffing", we indeed have much to be thankful for in Canada today.

I am in complete agreement with the Victoria City Council's commitment of $2,800 for the Canadian Chamber of Commerce dinner, however I wonder what council's reaction would have been to a similar request for the same amount for a dinner for the same number of visiting dignitaries of the Canadian Labor Congress.

Earlier Successes

During the past few months the statement has been repeated that the last Community Chest campaign was the first to go over the top. To set the record straight I looked up the official reports that I made as campaign director over a number of years, and I find that in 1937, under the joint chairmanship of Fred McGregor and R. H. B. Ker, we went out for $72,615 and secured $78,924. In 1941, under the chairmanship of W. P. D. Pemberton with J. H. Wilson as vice-chairman, we had a goal of $69,500 and secured $73,907. This is not to detract from last year's fine accomplishment, and I wish the Chest equal success in the next drive.

Encroachment

Zealous ladies make excellent tools for fascist aims. The law is our only protection against fascist encroachment and regimentation, and to encourage contempt for the law is a political stunt, which in my opinion, has succeeded admirably especially in cases where single-room dwellers take their meals in restaurants but must dwell in a room along with a sink whether they want to or not. Its nuisance value is on a par with the proposed law which would have empowered "nosey parkers" to enter our homes in order to count our cats, we breaking the law if we have one too many; and the law whereby a man was (or is) prohibited from taking his son (aged fourteen or under) on a shooting expedition without permission from the authorities.

Sinks in Rented Rooms

A heated discussion took place in Victoria city council a couple of weeks ago regarding sinks in single housekeeping rooms.

If this by-law is enforced landlords will have no other alternative except to raise their rents at least $7 per month per room. This was explained to city council. It was also fully explained to the committee, whose chairman is Alderman Mrs. Lily Wilson.

In council meeting, Alderman Lily Wilson stated that many people living in these single housekeeping rooms could afford to pay more rent for the rooms they occupy.

Landlords are aware of the $6 a month increase in old age pensions as well as Mrs. Wilson is aware of it. But I will go on record when I say not one landlord would raise the rent and take that extra $6 from the pensioner. But it would seem to me Alderman Wilson would do just that.

I realize some rooming houses need inspection and to be made to conform to our health and sanitary laws. But they are in the minority.

To force landlords to put a sink in every room would be cruel. The expense involved is absolutely prohibitive. The rent from single rooms is small—but these rooms are necessary for those who have small incomes.

I will also take this opportunity to advise The Daily Times to make sure of their facts before publishing a line stating, "The majority of landlords have installed sinks." This is not true. The majority haven't received their notice to install sinks due to the fact the ratepayers organized.

Peace and Plenty Harvested From the Seas

piles and leading to the "heart and spiler" of the trap.

At night we could see the pale yellow lights of the watchmen's huts as they stood guard over their valuable sea harvests. And it was not unusual that an armed watchman was forced to fire on fish pirates caught raiding a well filled trap.

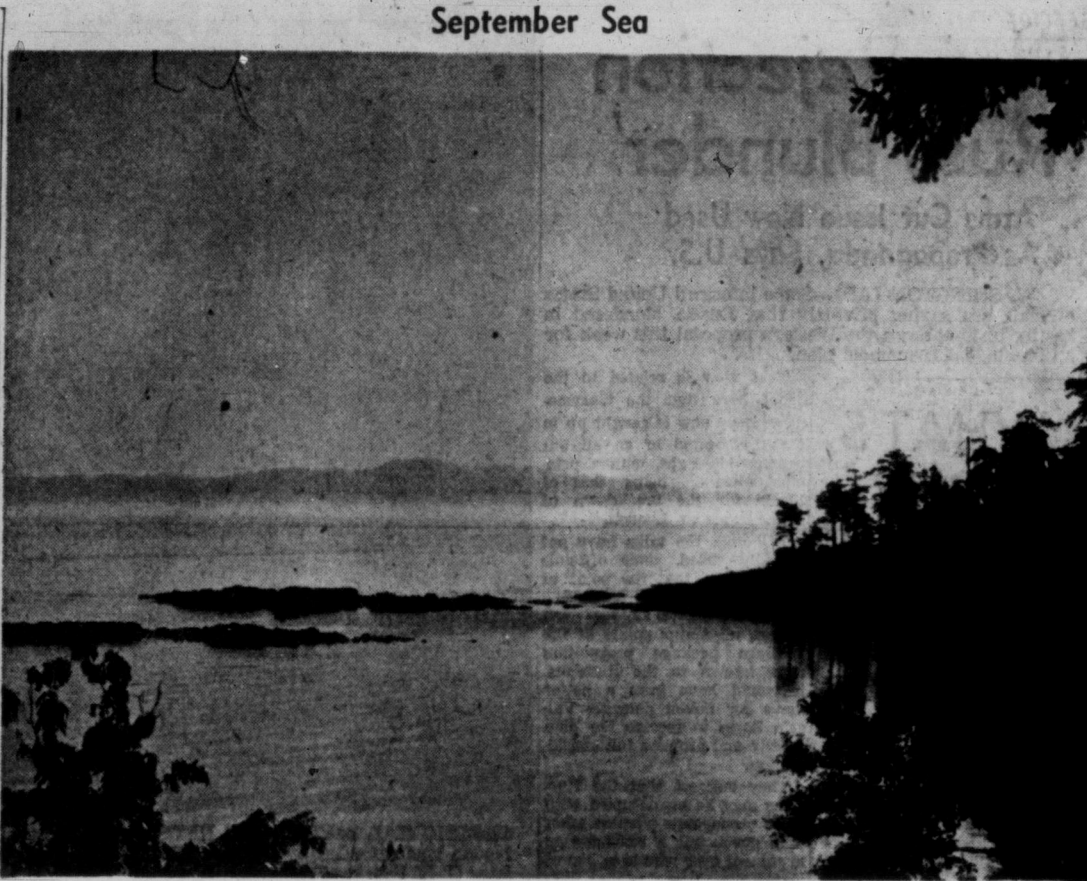

They were hardy men, good-natured and extremely tolerant of young tads who would row out to the traps to beg a big spring salmon, for we knew that the springs were only thrown away when the tug came with its pot-cow to lift the spiller. In the main they were Scandinavians whose normally fair skins were burned by sun, sea and tar to the appearance of mahogany.

Good Men

There was much joking and laughter among them and they were good men to have near when trouble came—as it invariably did—during the hectic rush of the salmon season.

Each year the sea exacted its toll of lives and each year the sea was cheated of more victims by the calm, unhurried efficiency of these Swede and Norwegian fishermen who, given half a chance, so often saved their companions from death by drowning.

And to me the wonder was that more did not drown because, so far as I know, none could swim and the weight of rubber hip-boots and thick clothing made instantaneous rescue action imperative. This I know since I am alive today only because one of these men hauled me, unconscious and inert, from the yellow ribbed sand.

LOOSE ENDS

The Modern Myth: Never Cut the Price

THREE recent incidents, illustrate one of our society's most interesting myths. Knowing nothing about them, I offer no comment on the merits of the cases in point, but only list the facts as reported in the press.

A group of freight truck operators is asking the Canadian Transport Board to prevent the railways from reducing their freight rates in western Canada.

The automobile industry of the United States has rejected a labor union's proposal to hold down its wage demands if the price of cars is also held down.

A powerful lobby of merchants is asking the Diefenbaker Government to repeal a law sponsored by the former Government which prevents manufacturers from dictating the retail price of their products in the stores and thus keeping them as high as possible.

Whatever the merits of these arguments may be, they all testify to the great North American illusion that money itself, the cash return, the pay cheque, the dividend, is the only important thing; that price is a minor consideration.

This is exceedingly curious in a society which lives by the price system; especially curious that so many businessmen, while always praising this system at service club luncheons, don't understand what it is about and don't intend to obey its laws if they can help it.

The price system pre-supposes that rising or falling prices will indicate the public's demand and taste for goods.

If the price of a certain article is falling it tells the businessman that he is producing too many goods of that sort, or in the wrong style. He will therefore produce less or change his style.

If he had no guide, in the form of prices, we would still be maintaining huge industries to manufacture buggy whips, warming pans and mustache cups. Prices fortunately told us long ago that these things were not widely needed.

On the other hand, rising prices tell the businessman that certain goods are needed in greater quantity and he proceeds to produce them. There is nothing like a rise in price to bring out extra production. The miracle of North American production is almost altogether the result of attractive prices.

To work satisfactorily the price system must provide lower as well as higher prices from time to time, but because we have enjoyed a long boom, a seller's market and a rising price level, a new generation of businessmen and labor leaders seems to think that prices must never fall. A falling price is regarded pretty widely as a disaster.

It can be a disaster, of course, if it results from a general depression. But the attempt to hold up prices when the economy obviously requires a lower price if goods are to be sold, is one of the surest methods of producing the depression. For at some point the consumer revolts against excessive prices, stops buying and slows down business. We may be nearing that point now in some departments of the continental economy.

Nevertheless, the money myth has been built, like inflation, into our whole economy and our North American mores to the point where a reduction in railway rates, for example is regarded by some highly intelligent men as ruinous, where an attempt to hold down car prices is repudiated as labor propaganda and the attempt of any merchant to sell below his competitor is regarded as unfair and dangerous.

COMPETITION is the dynamo and secret of the North American system, it is the only alternative to a socialist state of some kind, it has given us unprecedented wealth, it is passionately adored at every businessmen's banquet but, after an easy time when competition was blunted and all prices were rising, the first sign of normal conditions starts many free enterprisers crying murder.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

This must be amusing and comforting to the socialist, who wants the competitive system to break down so that government-controlled prices, wages and working conditions can be substituted for it, as they undoubtedly will be if the competitive system refuses to compete.

THE myth also holds (though every intelligent man knows this to be absurd) that the level of profits and wages, in terms of money, is the vital thing. Of course it is not.

A great nation like France can go broke while profits and wages, in terms of money, are rising all the time. Indeed, there is no surer way of going broke than to raise money rewards without regard to the other half of the equation, which is price.

A stock holder in a business might be doing very well if he earned only one per cent in dividends while prices were correspondingly low and his dividends would thus buy a large quantity of goods.

A worker might do very well on a wage of $10 a week if it bought him what $100 now buys.

A shareholder may be doing very badly on high dividends—and many are doing very badly at the moment—when the money buys little. A worker may starve on $100 a week if prices advance far enough.

ONE should apologize for stating anything so obvious were it not that the obvious facts are the very ones that our system is generally disregarding these days.

Both businessmen and workers seem to want more and more money no matter how little it will buy. Many of them are hypnotized by the balance sheet and the figures on the pay cheque though these may be quite meaningless; or rather, if they rise high enough, may mean disaster to everybody.

We are suffering from an infatuation with figures, a mathematical madness, a money myth. It will continue until the facts assert themselves, as they always do in the end, sharply and unpleasantly.

FROM WASHINGTON

Soviet Missile—Is It Ready to Go to Work?

IS the Soviet model of an intercontinental ballistic missile truly operational? That is, is it a weapon capable of being used in war, rather than a mere prototype? And if it is operational, is it sufficiently advanced for the Soviets to freeze on the model, as is their invariable custom when they are satisfied with a weapon, and proceed to mass-produce it? Behind the bland mask of complacency which the Eisenhower administration has assumed for public purposes, these are the key questions which the government's intelligence experts and policy-makers are anxiously asking.

They are quite genuinely life-and-death questions. They cannot be answered with assurance. Yet they tell a lot about the real meaning of the latest Soviet ICBM test.

For the first thing to understand about the Soviet test is that it was not something new or unexpected. A multi-stage missile of intercontinental range is not born by immaculate conception. It is the culmination of a long process, involving a whole series of missile tests.

The process started well over two years ago, when the Soviets began testing very large numbers of missiles of short and intermediate range, as first reported in this space. The process reached a decisive stage a few months ago, when the Soviets tested a first prototype model of their ICBM, as also first reported in this space.

The American government has been aware of this process throughout, though the administration has chosen to conceal it from the American people.

The details of how the government has known are of course properly secret. But certain obvious facts are public property—that radar is a line-of-sight instrument of theoretically unlimited range; and that ballistic missiles reach an altitude of hundreds of miles at the highest point in their trajectory, and are thus subject to radar detection at great range.

The Soviets' first prototype test of their ICBM was roughly comparable to the Air Force test of the American "Atlas" ICBM in April, with the difference that the Atlas test failed while the Soviet test succeeded.

As this reporter pointed out in reporting the Soviet test: "There is a long, difficult road to travel between the first test firing of a prototype missile and the achievement of an operational weapons system."

Soviet Claims

How far have the Soviets now travelled along that road? Part of the answer, at least, is suggested by a comparison between the Soviet claims for their ICBM model and the known characteristics of Atlas, which is at the present stage in no sense a weapon for use in war, but a research test vehicle.

The Soviets claim their model is a "multi-stage ballistic rocket," whereas the Atlas model unsuccessfully fired last spring consisted only of the huge initial stage rocket. The Soviet model is "intercontinental," and the "results show that it is possible to direct rockets to any part of the world."

The Atlas model fired last spring was designed to fly only about 3,000 miles. Finally, "the rocket landed in the target area," whereas the Atlas test prototype was not expected or designed to achieve any degree of accuracy.

The Soviet claims for their model are certainly vague, and designedly so. But in the past, Soviet claims have tended actually to understate Soviet achievements in the air-atomic field. Some experts, noting this fact, believe on the basis of the Soviet claims and other evidence that the Soviets already have an operational weapon ready for mass production.

Others believe, or hope, that more tests must be made, and more time must elapse, before the Soviets can go into quantity production.

In any case, there is no longer serious doubt that the Soviets are rapidly approaching the freeze-and-produce stage whereas our ICBM models are still strictly non-operational test vehicles, none of which has yet been successfully fired.

"I had thought they were about a year ahead of us," one expert has remarked, "but now it looks more like two years."

Despite the official complacency, it is well to understand what it could mean if this estimate is correct. For suppose the Soviets achieve a fully operational ICBM system two years before this country achieves a comparable system.

Wider Threat

They will then be able to threaten, not only American cities, but the system of strategic Air Force bases whose location is well known, with instant destruction. They could thus threaten to weaken decisively, or even eliminate entirely, the American retaliatory power which is the only real shield of the free world.

No one can predict whether in such circumstances the Soviets might actually launch a surprise attack. But it is not hard to predict that the Soviets would take every advantage of the obvious opportunity to blackmail the United States into accepting a super-Munich.

In these circumstances, it is simply incomprehensible that the Eisenhower administration has chosen to tell "the American people not to worry, and that everything is going to be all right." (Copyright 1957, N.Y. Herald Tribune Inc.)

DRIFTWOOD FANTASIES are seen in these four specimens from the current exhibition at Victoria Art Gallery. Local collectors entered unique subjects.

ART IN REVIEW

By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON

Nature Challenges Man In Tide-Etched Sculpture

Driftwood gathered from the Island shores provides a bright, humorous, sparkling exhibition at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, where it is on view until Sept. 27.

The public were invited to search the beaches for interesting pieces of driftwood, and the 60 or so exhibits might well start a collecting spree among those who are not already familiar with this fascinating pastime. It is entertainment with a reward, for it helps youngsters to develop a sense of design and natural form. It is a painless method of teaching aesthetics to those who might rebel against acquiring such knowledge through study.

And if a child can see an interesting shape in driftwood, how much more interesting are the shapes seen by adults. This is a game for the family. It is also a game which has been played by generations of artists, particularly sculptors. Artists who seek to enlarge upon nature soon learn that nature contains the answer to every problem of design. As man first learned the principles of streamlining through the study of birds in flight, so have sculptors and painters often used the common pebble or chunk of wood as a basis for those other imaginative flights which we erroneously ascribe to vision.

Much of contemporary non-objective art is directly constructed from shapes which face us in our daily existence, and the distortions of wood and stone have proved a fertile source of inspiration. Anybody can find wood shaped like a hen's egg, but it takes an artist to incorporate that shape into a creative form which doesn't remind us of wood, egg or oval but makes us see a shape common to all three, yet different.

Such an exhibition as this shows the degree of sophistication to which each of us has developed. Thus the best pieces of driftwood on view are not necessarily those which provide the loudest laugh, although a few of them are extremely funny. Nor are they the most realistic which appeal because they reflect the human form in easily recognizable shape. The finest examples are the simple pieces which have been selected because of the intrinsic beauty of shape and texture.

EBB AND FLOW

Sea and wood seem to collaborate in graceful intrigue. The ebb and flow of tides washes the wood along the natural contours of form and grain. The result is a straight-forward beauty which is a pleasure to observe.

For many of us, a disturbing weakness in modern carving is the manhandling of wood so that we are annoyed by the way an inexperienced sculptor hacks against the grain and splits the wood.

The sea has more respect for natural form, and this exhibition of driftwood drives home the lesson that nature is still a sculptor's best instructor.

The Victoria Sketch Club has just held its fourth annual exhibition, when works by members were on view at the Dominion Hotel.

It was an exhibition which contained nothing memorable, but much sincere effort to entrap the beauties of landscape and flower. Unfortunately the results were not always successful.

ASSURED

Of the twenty exhibitors, Miss Alice Carey seemed the most professional and assured. Her oil paintings "Basque Landscape" and "Ondarroa, Spain," were pleasing, and I liked the small pastel portrait by the same artist.

Two other works which I found of interest were "Creston, B.C." by Mrs. Nell Bradshaw and "Place of Stillwater" by Miss Dorothy Lowe.

I note that another exhibition will be on view at the Dominion Hotel between Aug. 30 and Sept. 4. This is the sketchbook show of 100 colored drawings by Miss Betty Campbell Newton, and is in aid of the Victoria Sketch Club.

P.S.—The Picture Rental scheme organized by the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria Women's Committee will recommence its social evenings on Monday, Sept. 9.

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

Spaniard's Donkey Talks Invoke Wise Philosophy

Another Nobel Prize winner is in the book news these days. To Canadians he is probably no more than a name—if even that. He is the "giant of Spanish letters"—Juan Ramon Jimenez, who won the most coveted prize in literature last year.

For the first time, English readers can now obtain a translation of one of the winner's most famous works, a series of sketches, written 30 years ago, called Platero and I, which is now considered a Spanish classic.

Platero is a silver-grey donkey and the color of this gentle, patient, plodding beast sets the tone for the entire volume. Platero is a listener; the author is the talker. In each sketch, the master is pointing out something to his friend, the donkey. In so doing he reveals his own nature, a character of almost ineffable sweetness who likes all the gentle things of the world—children and flowers and blue skies.

But there is more than this. This author, while he sees and is at one with the kindly aspects of the world finds more in what he sees and shows his donkey more than mere prettiness. Each sight and sound sets his thoughts to work so that as one reads through this book a whole philosophy of life emerges.

Its basic principle is that the important fact of existence is life itself—not the pride of individuality or the complacency of the group but just simply living. The externals are of no great importance. As this simple soul and his donkey perambulate within the narrow confines of their village and its environs they experience a universe. In the microcosm of the little Spanish town is the microcosm of all existence.

and very perceptive writing. In it is the mark of genius and this first translation does the master writer's work full justice. No sensitive reader can afford to pass this one by.

Sales Records

Good news about Canadian authors: Two items have made me feel very good about Canadian writing for this fall.

Have just heard that Ralph Allen—who can stand a bit of comfort after his Maclean's election blunder—has just had his next novel chosen by the Literary Guild for a selection this coming year. This is the book mentioned some time ago in this space.

It is called Peace River County.

Awe-Inspiring Standard Is Ruthlessly Imposed

By HANS GRUBER

Operating on a season budget of nearly two million dollars, the Philadelphia Orchestra is in one of the strongest competitive positions in the world for the services of the finest available orchestral musicians, especially since the demise of the NBC Symphony Orchestra.

Demands upon the musicians' skill and time are, however, rigorous. The orchestra has absolute priority on a man's services, 24 hours a day, 12 months in the year. All other professional or teaching activities must come second, except for a pre-arranged vacation time. A musician in the Philadelphia Orchestra is assumed to be infallible, both by the conductor and by his colleagues. Should a mistake occur in the first sight-reading of no matter how difficult a new work, the conductor automatically assumes that the mistake was in the part from which the musician was reading. Nine times out of ten, at least, that is indeed the case.

In the rarest case of the mistake being made by the musician, this is not allowed to happen very often. The rest of his colleagues will not tolerate him in their midst, even though he must have passed the fearful audition to have joined the orchestra to begin with, and no matter how brilliant an instrumentalist he may otherwise be once having learned his part.

Nor is any degree of difficulty of the part he is sight-reading an excuse. The conductor, however, is relieved of the necessity of personally firing some one found wanting.

The all-powerful orchestra committee does that, and the conductor may fully rely on them to take any necessary action the moment this becomes necessary, for the orchestra musicians will in no consideration on earth interfere with their fierce pride in themselves as an orchestra.

It is said that Ormandy himself cannot, in any case, will not, overrule the orchestra committee on any question relating to the orchestra's personnel. By the same token, any audition he himself may hold of a prospective musician must be supplemented by another one—and perhaps even stiffer one—held by his future orchestra colleagues.

Hans Gruber

performances? I am afraid this will sound more arrogant on my part than it is meant.

To professional ears the Philadelphia Orchestra was not at all times quite itself. The famous fiddle run in the Meistersinger Overture was—well, to say it was not together would be an exaggeration.

Yet, had this been a rehearsal, the conductor would have stopped and said, "again, please." A unison passage between solo clarinet and the viola section, in Prokofiev's 5th, was almost elusively unclear as to intonation. A minute misfortune befell the bassoon in the solo of the second movement in Tchaikowski's 4th.

Those are three instances where there was a slip from orchestra perfection with a capital P, and remember that these were interspersed among six concerts.

MOLOTOV GIVEN POST IN OUTER MONGOLIA

V. M. MOLOTOV
... How far can one slip?

MOSCOW (AP) — V. M. Molotov, who won international prominence as chief of all Soviet diplomats, was named today to the minor—and remote—diplomatic post of ambassador to Outer Mongolia.

The new job for the former premier and foreign minister, believed to be in poor health, was the second assignment of a loser in the recent Kremlin shakeup by Nikita Khrushchev. The Soviet Communist party chief earlier sent former premier Georgi Malenkov off to run a power station in far-off Kazakhstan, just west of Mongolia.

Lazar M. Kaganovich has been appointed manager of a cement factory at Asbest, on the Siberian slope of the Ural Mountains.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

80,000 Vancouver Jobless Predicted

(From CP Dispatches)
VANCOUVER — Bill Black, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said Friday there will be 80,000 unemployed in Vancouver this winter.

"That's what our research department says and I think the estimate is right," he said in an interview. "Official figures show we have more unemployed now than in any summer for years past."

(Latest Unemployment Insurance Commission total for this area showed 15,000-16,000 unemployed. Commission officials were not immediately available for comment on Mr. Black's forecast.)

The labor official put the blame for the forecast situation on poor immigration policies and inadequate planning.

FOUR SAVED IN WRECK

POWELL RIVER — Three men and a woman returning to Texada Island after a visit here were rescued from their wrecked boat early Friday.

They were taken off the launch Charwallen by the Vancouver tug George M. Lindsay shortly after the launch ran onto a reef about a mile from Vananda on Texada Island. Two of the four were Ken Croft and Fred Price of Westview, near here. Names of the other couple were not available.

MILL STRIKE LOOMS

VANCOUVER — A total of 400 workers in Greater Vancouver's sash and door mills are ready to go on strike to back up their demands for wage increases, it was reported Friday.

A spokesman for the International Woodworkers of America, local 1-252 said 92 per cent of the membership had voted in favor of strike action, and employers are being informed of the stand.

MOUNTIES PAY UP

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League today paid a $7,000 bill from the city for rental of Capilano Stadium. This brings to $10,600 the amount the club has paid for the three-month period ending June 30. The payment covers 5 per cent of gross admissions, parking, radio and concession revenues.

FATALITY CAUSE UNKNOWN

VANCOUVER — Cause of the accident in which three men were killed when their car plunged off the Second Narrows bridge here Thursday may never be known.

Police said Friday the car was so badly damaged that any signs of a mechanical fault would have been obliterated.

However, examination showed the tires were not deflated, ruling out a blowout as a cause of the crash.

Alec Morris, 27, the only occupant of the car who survived, was reported in satisfactory condition.

BIG SALES FORUM

VANCOUVER — The Sales Executives Club of the Vancouver Board of Trade announced Friday it will stage one of its biggest sales forums in its history Sept. 9. Speakers will include Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, author of "The Power of Positive Thinking" and a famed religious leader.

FISHBOAT EXPLODES

LADNER, B.C. — Nick Stichen, secretary of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union local here, was treated for superficial burns after his fishing boat exploded in the Fraser River, Friday night.

The boat, a gillnetter, exploded when Mr. Stichen started the engine. He cut it adrift so the fire would not spread to other boats moored nearby.

WAGE BOOST ASKED

KAMLOOPS — Non-professional employees at the Royal Inland Hospital are seeking a 15-cent-an-hour across-the-board increase for their 1958 wage contract, plus fringe benefits. Directors of the hospital have been notified of the demands for the new contract by W. M. Black, business agent for Hospital Employees Association, Local 180.

SOURDOUGH PRESIDENT

SEATTLE — Tom Tellefsen, Vancouver, B.C., was elected president of the International Sourdough Reunion at its 26th annual meeting here Friday. He had been acting president since the death of Mrs. Sarah Berthelsen, Portland, in May. Other officers include Mrs. Helen Parker, Vancouver, B.C., assistant secretary-treasurer.

New Missile Joins U.S. Rocket Arms

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A ballistic sister of the highly regarded Jupiter intermediate missile may possibly be counted now among the United States' rocket weapons.

A missile of estimated 70-foot length, believed to be the air force-developed Thor, was successfully launched from closely guarded Cape Canaveral Friday afternoon.

Observers four to eight miles from the launching pads saw the white-hulled rocket roar straight up, part company with its booster section, then dive with the booster portion in long, seaward arcs marked by vapor trails in the cloudless sky.

Test centre officials would say only that a missile was launched. If it was the Thor, the flight—visible nearly four minutes—was the first reported in instance of a Thor rocket leaving the ground.

Both the Jupiter, developed by the army, and the Thor were designed as intermediate-range 1,500-mile rockets. The Jupiter was called a spectacular success by army secretary Wilber Brucker after one of its pattern was launched Wednesday at Cape Canaveral.

HOT TOPIC

Interest in both Jupiter and Thor missiles heightened with the Florida tests this week, the announcement by Russia of a successful intercontinental missile test, and reports that the army believes that strategic factors make the shorter-range Jupiter a reliable answer to the Soviet rocket.

It is believed that only considerations for secrecy kept the army from saying flatly that the Jupiter could be put in production within 30 days. No successful flight of an American intercontinental rocket has been reported. An Atlas of that class was successfully launched at Cape Canaveral early this summer, but it destroyed itself at 6,000 feet when the failure of a valve caused the big missile to wobble. A second Atlas is known to be ready for testing.

Libel Trial Jury to Inspect 'Latin Lover' Scene—Row 35

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jurors in the Confidential Magazine libel trial will examine the row of theatre seats where witnesses have testified that actress Maureen O'Hara cuddled with a Latin lover.

Confidential's story about Miss O'Hara's purported ardor love-making in "row 35" is a key issue. Miss O'Hara has denied that such an incident ever took place, saying she was in Europe at the time.

The jurors will visit Grauman's Chinese Theatre in Hollywood, Tuesday, when the trial resumes after the long Labor Day week-end.

The defence wound up its case Friday without calling any movie stars to the witness stand, although it had more than 100 celebrities under subpoena.

'SPIRIT' STAND IRKS HUSBAND

JALAPA, MEXICO (UP) — Arnulfo Arrieta complained today that his wife, an ardent feminist, is exercising her "equal rights" by getting drunk every day.

Arrieta said he doesn't mind her drinking but won't be responsible for her bar bills.

HANEY MAN NAMED

New Fire 'Chief'

Chief Jack Stanyer, Haney, B.C., was elected president of the B.C. Association of Fire Chiefs at the convention which ended here Friday.

He succeeds Chief James Gordon of Cranbrook.

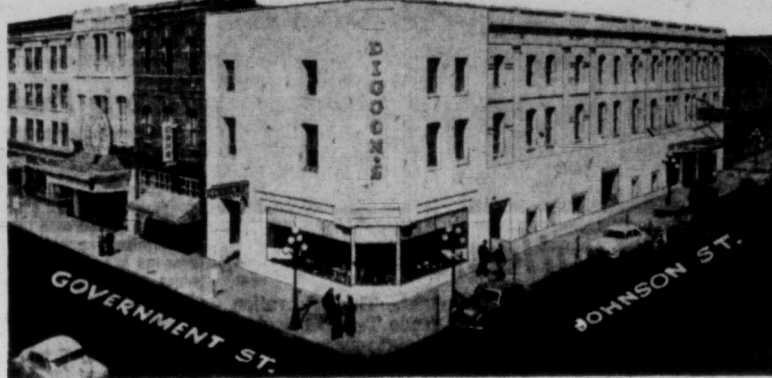

New vice-president is Chief Stan Davies of the Powell River Company.

Directors named were August Dornbrier, Prince George; Rod Bayles, Langford; Hugh Bird, Vancouver, and Oscar Thulin, Campbell River.

W. A. Oswald of Vancouver was re-elected secretary, and Don Watt, MacMillan & Bloedel, assistant secretary.

Braves Owe 'Cousin' Series Slice

By United Press

It ain't exactly cricket, but the pennant-bound Milwaukee Braves may be strongly tempted to vote their Cincinnati "cousins" a sizeable World Series slice when they sit down to cut the melon about a month from now.

No club in the National League has contributed more to the Braves' present seven-game lead than the Redlegs, who have dropped 15 out of 17 to Milwaukee so far this season.

Every pennant-winner generally has its favorite "patsy." Last year, for example, the Dodgers made the Cubs and Cardinals their No. 1 "whipping boys" by taking 16 out of 22 games from each. And over in the American League, the Yankees licked Kansas City 15 out of 22 and have beaten the A's 17 times out of 20 this year.

The Braves used a barrage of four home runs Friday in defeating the Redlegs for the eighth straight time, 9-5.

SPAWN WINNER

Eddie Mathews, Carl Sawatski, Frank Torre and Wes Covington each homered for Milwaukee as southpaw Warren Spahn notched his 17th victory although he was knocked out in the seventh.

Brooklyn Dodgers, still nursing an outside chance, humbled the Giants, 10-4, while the Cardinals defeated the Cubs, 2-1, and rookie Jack Sanford of the Phillies beat Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, for his 17th triumph.

Kansas City dimmed the White Sox flickering pennant hopes a bit more over in the American League when Alex Kellner stopped Chicago, 3-1. Boston rolled over Baltimore, 8-1, Cleveland scored a 10-inning 6-5 victory over Detroit, and Washington stopped the Yankees, 4-2.

Don Drysdale of the Dodgers defeated the Giants for the seventh time in two seasons when he stopped them on three hits. Charley Neal got the Brooks off to a three-run jump when he homered in the second inning. Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo added other homers for Brooklyn.

ELEVEN STRIKEOUTS

Del Ennis' ninth-inning sacrifice fly scored Wally Moon with the winning run in St. Louis' victory over Chicago. Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell struck out 11 batters in gaining his sixth victory.

Granny Hamner drove in two of Philadelphia's four runs, including what proved to be the winning run with a fourth-inning double.

Kellner struck out eight White Sox batters and yielded only six hits to beat Bob Keegan for his sixth victory. It was the White Sox' fourth straight setback.

Bob Porterfield of the Red Sox pitched a six-hitter over the Orioles and was aided to his fourth victory by Jackie Jensen's two-run homer. Ted Williams, celebrating his 39th birthday, managed only one hit in five trips and his batting average dipped to .377, a fraction higher than Mickey Mantle's.

Mantle collected his 34th homer and two singles, but they weren't enough to keep Bobby Shantz from suffering his fourth setback.

Al Smith's double in the 10th inning scored Vic Wertz with the run that gave the Indians their triumph over the Tigers. Detroit tied the score at 4-4 in the ninth on Charley Maxwell's 22nd homer with one on and then went ahead with a run in the 10th. But three hits, a walk and a sacrifice enabled the Tribe to come back with two runs in their half of the 10th as reliever Vito Valentini picked up his first victory.

Snead, Demaret Named to Squad

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret were named Thursday as the two U.S. players in the international golf championships and Canadian Cup matches in Tokyo, Oct. 24-7.

Snead teamed with Ben Hogan to win both competitions on the Wentworth course in Surrey, England, last year but Hogan was unable to participate this year because of a back injury.

Something for the Mantlepiece

Baseball's greatest hitter, Boston Red Sox' outfielder Ted Williams, gets something to cherish as manager Mike Higgins presents the "Splendid Splinter" with a portrait of himself. The occasion was Williams' 39th birthday, celebrated Friday night. The celebration was in Baltimore and Boston made Ted feel doubly well with an 8-1 win over the sixth-place Orioles. (AP Wirephoto.)

RAY TRADES LAW BOOKS FOR HIS WORK GLOVES

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson stowed away his law books and donned the gloves again Friday in preparation for his now on-again middleweight title defence against Carmen Basilio, Sept. 23.

Robinson boxed two rounds in his first workout at his training camp since Aug. 18. Sugar Ray was in fine spirits and he gave sparring partner Lee Williams a good going over in both rounds. Robinson worked out occasionally at a New York gym while he settled his contract complaints with the International Boxing Club.

The middleweight champion, hoping to make up lost time, plans to box again today, Sunday and Monday. Usually he takes Monday off.

Mounties Discover Friends in Boston

By The Associated Press

The pennant-hungry San Francisco Seals, seeking to end successfully an 11-year quest for the Pacific Coast League flag in their last season, have suffered a double jolt.

First the Seals' parent Boston Red Sox recalled Ken Aspromonte, San Francisco's second baseman, and the PCL's leading hitter with .330.

Then the San Diego Padres Friday night drubbed the Seals, 5-2, as the second-place Vancouver Mounties pounded the cellar Portland club, 9-5. This allowed the Mounties to climb within three and one-half games of the Seals.

Hollywood, six games out of first and in third, edged seventh-ranked Sacramento, 3-2. Seattle and Los Angeles, ranked fifth and sixth, split. The Rainiers took the opener, 3-2, and the Angels the nightcap, 2-1.

Bosox general manager Joe Cronin said he was reluctant to take Aspromonte from the Seals but explained he had no alternative. Two Boston second sackers are on the injured list. Aspromonte will leave Sunday.

Vancouver's George Bamberger was hurling shutout ball against the Beavers until the seventh. In the final three innings the Beavers touched him for five runs.

The Mounties pushed across five runs in the seventh, four on Jim Marshall's two-run triple and Owen Friend's two-run homer. This combined with tallies in the first and fifth and two in the ninth for Bamberger's 13th victory.

BOMBERS IN SECOND

'Pegs Pained As Leos Tamed

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers shook off the effects of a flock of penalties and injuries to key players Friday night to score a 20-14 win over British Columbia Lions in a Western Interprovincial Football Union game here.

The Bombers now are in a second-place tie with Edmonton Eskimos.

Calgary Stampeders could fatten their first-place margin by taking their fourth win in Calgary against winless Saskatchewan Roughriders in the only game scheduled tonight.

Bombers gained their victory with a well-balanced attack, travelling 201 yards on the ground and 115 through the air. Fullback Bob McNamara scored one touchdown on a drive from the one while ends Ernie Pitts and Dennis Shaw picked up a touchdown apiece on passes.

Halfback Buddy Leake converted two of the touchdowns. For British Columbia, touchdowns were scored by halfback Primo Villanueva and fullback Don Vicic, with quarterback Matur Duncan converting both.

It was a costly win, before 16,442 fans, since McNamara and fullback Bob Davenport were both knocked out by torn ligaments. Coach Bud Grant said after the game that Davenport is out for the season.

The Bombers held a big edge along the ground, piling up 201 yards rushing against 89 yards for the Lions. Duncan and alternate quarterback Toppy Vann moved B.C. 147 yards through the air with 11 completions in 22 attempts.

Calgary Stampeders will be seeking their fourth straight victory tonight when they host the Roughriders, and Monday's action brings together B.C. and the Roughies at Regina, and the Blue Bombers and Eskimos at Edmonton.

Soccer Action

Brodie's Bakery and Canadian Scottish of the Victoria and District Football League will stage an exhibition game Sunday at S. J. Willis Junior High School starting at 11 a.m.

Tugmen, after Victoria's fifth provincial lacrosse title in two weeks, scored two unanswered goals in the fourth quarter. Close checking and steady goal-tending by Fred Wooster was a keynote in the Tugmen's victory.

Down 5-4, Don Pimlott boosted Tugmen into a tie as he scored at 2:36 of the final quarter. Jackie Milburn drilled the winner three minutes later.

Tugmen then went on the defensive for the rest of the game and held the determined losers scoreless as time ran out.

Two-for-One Deal Involves Pelletier

Victoria Receives Brown, Kaiser From Vancouver

By GRAHAM COX

There's no grass growing around the Victoria Hockey Club offices, nor could there be any at the pace manager-coach Colin Kilburn has been moving during the past week since confirmation of his appointment to the G-M post was announced.

Always a controversial figure, on or off the ice, Kilburn doesn't intend to change. He announced his first trading deal in preparation for the coming season and a surprise candidate for Cougar goal-tending honors.

Marcel Pelletier, three-year veteran with the Victoria team, and last year's Western Hockey League all-star goalie, will not be in the Victoria net this season. Instead, he'll wear the red, white, and blue of the Vancouver Canucks.

In true Kilburn fashion, the release of Pelletier will probably stir up a little controversy among the hockey faithful.

"I hope the fans do talk about it," said Kilburn. "At least we will have accomplished one thing—we'll have the fans talking and thinking hockey."

"I'm concerned with getting a winning team together. We feel we made an excellent deal." The "deal" involved trading the Quebec-born Pelletier to Vancouver for a pair of hardy veterans, defenceman Carl Kaiser and right-winger Freddie Brown — and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Victoria Product Makes Grade

The newcomer to the Cougar net will be Vancouver-born, Victoria-trained Don Hamilton, who left today for Winnipeg as the goalkeeper with the Junior Shamrock Lacrosse team.

Hamilton spent the last two seasons with Melville Millionaires of the Saskatchewan Junior League, where he was named to the second all-star team last year.

He has played two games in the WHL, one for Victoria and one against them when Seattle took a 3-2 decision from the Cougars last season.

At the same time, Kilburn said Wayne Brown, flashy right-winger with the club for the past two seasons, will not be returning.

He was given his release by league president Al Leader and has picked up his amateur card to play this season in Belleville, Ont. The move saved the club $2,000 as that was the tag hung on him by the league if he returned to Victoria this season.

Kaiser, at 200 pounds and 31 years of age, can move at either defence or on the forward line, but will probably stay on defence where he scored seven goals and 17 assists, for 24 points last season.

He has spread his time between Vancouver and Saskatoon for the past five years and prior to that moved in United States and Pacific Coast League circles.

Familiar Faces Expected to Return

At 150 pounds, the 27-year-old Brown has patrolled the Canuck right wing for the past four years with his best season in 1955-56 when he combined 29 goals with 33 assists for 62 points.

During the 1956-57 season, Brown collected 42 points on 18 goals and 24 assists.

Back for the coming year will be Bill Davidson, Doug Anderson and Doug McAuley, all Victoria-owned, with Don Chiupka, Larry Leach and Gordie Hawthorn, all Boston property, also expected to return.

Kilburn expects to have Bill Doobyn back on defence if a deal can be arranged with New York Rangers.

On invitation from New York and Boston, Kilburn will leave Sept. 14 for a week or 10 days to attend their training camps and look over prospects. He hopes to lure Bruce Carmichael back to Victoria from New York.

Gordon Wilson, out with a knee injury last season, is expected at the Cougar training camp along with Larry Berg, a Kamloops left winger who played two pro games in 1955.

Training camp facilities have not yet been definitely decided upon, but Nanaimo will probably get the nod upon Kilburn's return from his Eastern trip. The Nanaimo rink will be used because of renovations to be made in Memorial Arena.

Season's tickets will go on sale September 9 after the club moves into its new offices in the Hudson's Bay Company store.

'B' Ball Crown To Ladysmith

Fletcher's Clothiers, Victoria Senior "B" Softball League champions, failed in their bid for a Vancouver Island crown Friday as they dropped a 4-0 decision to Ladysmith in the deciding game of a best-of-three final at the up-Island centre.

Although Ellis Achtem was touched for only six hits, he gave up two runs in each of the fifth and sixth innings. Jim Lamont, winning pitcher, gave up seven scattered safeties.

In Knockout Cup competition at Heywood Park Friday, Brodie's Bakery racked up their second win in three tries as they stopped Mary's Coffee Bar, 11-2.

Mike Clegg, pitching for the winners, banded out two home runs and Bill Peterson and Cliff McKay each got one.

Fletcher's lead the competition with two straight wins. Brodie's and Mary's now have an identical 2-1 record and Firefighters, Navy and Re-refined Oil each have a win and a loss. Tudor House and Brentwood have been eliminated.

Ladysmith opens the provincial round-robin series in Vancouver Saturday morning. This is a double knock-out play-off for the B.C. championship.

Misico said the Western Canada series would be a best-of-seven series.

The winner of the B.C. series will be an automatic entry in the western finals.

GROUSE LEGAL TARGETS; DEER OPEN SEPT. 14

Deer season for Game Management Area One (Vancouver Island) opens Sept. 14, game warden Jack Lenfesty announced today.

Lenfesty stated that hunters may become confused by misreading regulations which state that deer season for GMA's 15 and 16 (Lillooet-Chillo Lake Region) begins Sunday.

He advised hunters that only blue grouse are legal targets today in GMA 1, with pigeons opening Sunday. Deer season runs until Dec. 1.

Singles to Settle Walker Cup Event

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The youngest member of the U.S. United States Walker Cup team Friday won two matches, halving Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., and lost one in a close opening day of the 16th international amateur golf competition.

The Americans, slopping through a drenching rain on the sodden 6,550-yard Minkahda course, drew away in the afternoon round toward what looked like a series of easy victories. Then they saw the Britons come back to make every one of the four matches close ones.

Today's eight singles matches will decide the 16th in a series of international tussles which began in 1922.

The Americans have won 14 of 15 previous Walker Cup matches.

'Pest' Now Big Aussie Money Earner

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—The opossum, which for years has been a protected animal in Australia and now is deemed a pest, has become a prospective dollar earner.

A six-week open season in Victoria state for hunters is to be followed by auction sales. A dozen top-quality skins were sold recently for $15.45—a price likely to attract hunters. During the season, each hunter is allowed to bag 400 opossums.

Opossums have been causing much damage to government-owned forests. They eat the foliage off trees and use their sharp claws to scratch off the bark to get at the sap.

Suburban home-owners have been plagued by opossums. The animals have a passion for the new growth on rose bushes.

North American Cycling Champ

VANCOUVER (CP)—Jack Disney of Pasadena, Calif., won the one-mile Senior North American Cycling championship at the Empire Bowl here Friday night in 2:33.9.

He took the lead in the final lap from Ed Barry, Vancouver, and after a shuffle for positions in the back stretch, sped ahead of Jim Davies, Vancouver, and Barry.

Disney scored a double victory, also winning the Five-Mile North American title, in a time of 11:1.6.

The championships end Monday night. Tonight the 25-mile event will be wheeled off.

Glen Harper's Duncan foursome, another favorite, was forced into an extra end by A. Jeffrey of Victoria. Jeffrey was beaten, 9-8.

In afternoon play, club president Ernie Gordon was one up coming home but Tony Gutoski laid two to win, 10-9.

Duncan's Tony Folk also counted two to win over Fred Isaacs after being one down coming home.

He'd Burn Gloves If It Helped Sport

VANCOUVER (CP)—If Billy Oates had his way he'd "gater up every pair of boxing gloves, toss them all into one pile and start the biggest bonfire in town."

Oates, connected with the sport in various capacities for 50 years, still likes boxing as a sport. But about four years ago he developed a strong distaste for so-called professionalism in amateur boxing.

"I began to realize that science and skill were being practically ignored in favor of cold-blooded intent to batter an opponent senseless," he said in an interview. "The amateurs," he said, "have no respect for boxing purely as a sport."

"All each one wants and strives to do is knock the other fellow unconscious."

He developed his interest in the sport in 1902 as a boy in the Cornish village of Helston. "Bob Fitzsimmons lived just a short way from our home and was a friend of my father's," Billy said. "Quite naturally, I suppose, he became my boyhood idol."

'Peg Soccer Player Draws $100 Fine

WINNIPEG (CP)—A soccer player was fined $100, ordered to pay $100 court costs and placed on two years suspended sentence today for assaulting a referee and another player.

Chris Weintz, with the Germania Club, was placed on suspended sentence for assaulting referee Richard Harvey after Harvey ordered him off the field in a game with Army and Navy Aug. 15. He was fined $100 and costs for attacking Gunther Mirwaldt, a member of the Scottish team.

Magistrate M. H. Garton said: "I am quite satisfied you are guilty of these offences. That kind of sportsmanship will not be tolerated in Winnipeg."

Striking the Scottish player was a "vicious assault," said the magistrate. "You have no business on the field. I hope these sentences will have an effect on good sportsmanship in Winnipeg."

Harvey said he saw Weintz kick Mirwaldt. He ejected him from the game and then Weintz hit Mirwaldt.

Weintz claimed he struck the referee after the referee pushed him. He said someone called him a "dirty German pig" and "it must have been Mirwaldt because he was the only one nearby."

Oak Bay Hard-Pressed In Defeating Vampires

Last year's Intermediate Canadian Football League champions, Oak Bay Drakes, had their work cut out for them Friday night at Royal Athletic Park before they could come from behind and nip Mayo Vampires 21-8 in the first game of the season.

A sparsely-scattered crowd of just over 400 almost had Oak Bay upset into their laps by Ray Mitchell's surprisingly spirited Vampires who came off the field at half-time with the score 14-0 in their favor.

They picked up the single point in the second quarter on a Ray McVie kick into the end zone.

Halfback Gordon Hemmings put Drakes back in the game in the third quarter when he took a hand-off to scamper around right end to pay-dirt.

Vampires bounced right back to regain their one-point margin when quarterback Wayne Henderson led a march that moved the length of the field to a touchdown. Charlie Bishop made the score as Henderson faked three times before giving him the ball and sending him over around the right end of the line to score.

On the first play of the final quarter Hemmings again went around end to send Drakes into a 16-8 lead.

Don Hendry scored the final points as he took a pass, deep in the Vampire end-zone, after the minute flag was down.

Henderson saved another Drake score earlier, with only three minutes left to go, when he called for a "kick formation" on third down on his own goal line and then had McVie run the ball out to the 20-yard line in a daring play.

The game originally scheduled for Labor Day has been postponed and Drakes will have to wait until Friday to test Navy at Royal Athletic Park.

Scares Town

EAST PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—A blinding flash of light and a noise like a clap of thunder threw this town into an uproar Friday night. Police, deluged by calls from anxious residents, found the source of the mysterious origin. A model plane being flown by two boys on a golf course hit tension wires, knocking out two 69,000-volt wires.

Store-Purchased Bread Is 'Frill' When Unemployment Hits

By DINAH KERR
How does a family get by when the breadwinner is out of work?
The nightmare of unemployment is something most families think about from time to time, and hope against hope it never happens.
But what is it like when it does happen, how do you tighten the family belt, does the grocery store carry you on credit, what about time payments?
To get the answer to some of these questions, this reporter was sent to interview a family struggling through the "no work" nightmare right now.

Forty-nine-year-old carpenter Robert Perry has been out of work for two months and he figures that's about all a man can stand.
In two months he has worked one day longshoring. The rest of the time he has weeded the half-acre of garden behind his home at 4445 Torquay.
"It keeps you hopping but there's no money attached to it," he said.
Mr. Perry is one of about 35 carpenters now out of work. The lay-off hit when he was working at HMC Dockyard.

"They said it would only last two weeks," he said. "Then we went back to work for one week and we've been off ever since."
In eight months since the beginning of the year, Mr. Perry has worked about three.
This last lay-off is "about all a person can take," he said. "Then you start slipping back."
Unemployment insurance of $26 to $30 a week buys groceries for the Perrys but lack of ready cash puts the bite on all family "frills" — clothes, movies, even bakery products — and some necessities, like payments on their home.

Mr. Perry "pounded every nail and dug every shovelful" for his modern little home, but he is paying off the mortgage still.
"At a time like this, that money comes out of your savings," he said.

"We have some money set aside because we've made a practice of saving for emergencies since the depression days, but the money won't last forever."
Finding substitutes for the "frills" is Mrs. Perry's job.

She makes many of her own clothes, and bakes 15 loaves of bread a week, along with cakes, pies and rolls.
"With three men in the house we'd be poor if we had to buy bakery products," she said.
The Perrys haven't seen a movie in more than a year. Their relaxation and entertainment comes through friends and TV.
One son, Dean, 21, works at lubrication and car-washing at a Victoria garage. The second, Barry, 16, a high school student, has been working part time during the summer.

Both boys buy their own clothes, but neither pays board.
"We want to help them get a start in life," Mr. Perry said.
He figures it's too late to make a new start, himself.
"When you go looking for work and you're over 40, they like to look the other way," he said.
For a man who has had a lot of time to think about his future as a carpenter, Mr. Perry is still pretty optimistic.
"If the Navy gets as many contracts as they think they might, we could be back to work in September," he said. "There's a chance that the work might carry through to the spring."

"I say that when I'm optimistic, but it's hard to be very optimistic at a time like this."
"At least my children aren't young and if a person has his own home, he's not too badly off."
So Mr. Perry will continue to work in his garden and make calls at the employment bureau, and the Carpenters' and Joiners' Union office.
Meanwhile, he says, "I'm living on hopes and what little cash I have left."

Two local western "hossmen" showed "cowpokes" at the Pacific National Exhibition a thing or two this week. George McGee, left, of Ben-

venuto Road, Brentwood, with his Miss Skookum, and Bob Owens, of Colwood, on his registered quarterhorse, Tacoma Dink Echois, placed first and second, respectively, in two feature events, western working and trail classes. They were among a big entry in events at the Saanichton Fair this afternoon. Results of the western horse show of the local exhibition as well as breeding and English riding events scheduled at Saanichton on Monday will be published by The Times on Tuesday. Breeding classes judging starts at 10 a.m. and the riding show is scheduled for the Labor Day afternoon. Horse section of the fair is under sponsorship of Garden City Horsemen's Club, presided over by J. V. "Ved" Donaldson. Club has increased stabling and improved facilities greatly for this year's show. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Mrs. Priscilla Bethell, 2859 Prior, will attend a short course in museum management at the University of British Columbia, September 3 to 7.
The course is sponsored by the UBC Extension Department in co-operation with the provincial museum and archives here.

Eighteen members of Victoria's Sons of Norway dance team participated this week in "Playfair Week" in Port Angeles.

They performed to a big crowd in the Masonic Temple on Wednesday evening, after participating in a mid-afternoon downtown parade.

An exhibition of 100 sketches by Victoria's Betty Newton will open at 8 o'clock tonight, instead of 9, at the Dominion Hotel board room.

The earlier opening is for tonight only.

First parade of the fall training season for the 40th Technical Squadron, RCEME (Militia) will be held Thursday, in the Bay Street Armouries, at 8.15 p.m.

Annual tax sale of Saanich properties, on which three or more years of taxes are owing, will be held in the Women's Institute Hall, Royal Oak, September 30.

A week's holiday by the sea ended today for 35 handicapped persons at the Community Chest's Sunshine Camp at Sooke.

Handicapped by arthritis, multiple sclerosis, polio and other illnesses, the campers still enjoyed a full round of activities. Six were confined to wheelchairs.

Entertainment included movies and a talent show staged by the campers themselves, the staff and friends in the Sooke area.

Fines totalling $200 were imposed in city police court Friday on four sailors who pleaded guilty to having liquor in their possession at the CAC Gardens Wednesday night.

The choice of $50 or 30 days each was given to Victor Royce, Marcel Lauret Lagace, Frank Arthur Read and Gordon Francis Hobday.

A public hearing on new zoning-by-law revisions will be held Wednesday at 7.30 p.m. in the Esquimalt municipal hall.

A special meeting of council will follow the hearing if necessary.

L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee, will speak on next year's celebrations at a meeting of the Purchasing Agents' Association to be held at the Pacific Club next Wednesday at 6 p.m.

Victoria and Vancouver Island Multiple Sclerosis Society is planning an Island-wide drive to raise $2,500 for research into cause and possible cure of the crippling disease.

The decision was reached Friday at a meeting of the executive.

The executive also decided to organize an auxiliary to the Victoria chapter, and a meeting of all interested will be held Thursday, Sept. 26 at 8 p.m. in Red Cross headquarters, Fort Street.

The committee received 6,278 signatures to individual ballots endorsing this.

The provincial government has announced the Act will be reopened at the next legislature, and at that time the committee will again ask for the shopping extension.

"This means that Victoria on Wednesday afternoons and Sundays as well should be closed tight by law enforcement officers, unless discrimination is to be shown. It has been apparent that some stores have been violating the 6 p.m. closing hour and the Sunday closing.

"The committee feels that all merchants must obey the same law. A type of general store is developing in the area which sells prohibited products from early morning until late at night and, in some instances, on Sundays."

The spokesman said shoppers were strongly behind six-day shopping, and on a recent day

Printing Plant Manager Feted By Colleagues

Retiring today after 40 years service with Colonist Printers, Dudley Green was honored with Mrs. Green at a reception tendered Friday night by the directors and management of Victoria Press Ltd.

Employees of the printing establishment and other associates of Mr. Green attended. A handsome travelling bag was presented to him on their behalf by Stuart Keate, vice-president of Victoria Press.

TRAFFIC FINES

Kathleen R. Miller, Courtney, $35 for careless driving;

UNSKILLED LABOR BOOSTS UNEMPLOYED RANKS

Unskilled labor accounted for most of the increase in Victoria's unemployment list during the past week as it grew by 47 to a total of 2,390.
Registrations at the National Employment Service office showed an increase of 69 men out of work while 22 women, previously unemployed, found jobs to moderate the increase.

Meanwhile, Victoria's Winter Employment Committee is swinging into action with a "Plan-Now" campaign to maintain employment levels through the winter.

The campaign, opened earlier this week, is aimed at impressing householders and employers with the need for scheduling many types of work and repairs for winter months, when labor is available and the employment needed.

Current figures are 1,744 men and 646 women unemployed.

"A detailed examination shows that in the skilled trades the variation from last week is very small," reported NES manager J. H. Fox.

"However, in the unskilled laboring group, there was a general increase with the largest number (25) being added to the construction labor file."

Largest number of openings is in the professional engineering field.

The number of carpenters seeking work shows no change. Truck drivers are up one, construction machinery operators are down two, stationary engineers remain constant and painters are up three.

Employment conditions for women have changed little. An increase in the number of domestic, sales clerk and waitress jobs has been countered by a slight easing in demand for qualified stenographers.

Volume of work appeared holding a steady level and even showed signs of increasing in some industries but so far there has been much impact on the unemployed list.

LABOR LOOKS BACK ON MANY DISPUTES BUT FEW STRIKES

BY PETER MURRAY
Organized labor in Canada and the U.S. will take stock Monday.

In most countries of the world "Labor Day" is May 1. Here it is the first Monday in September.

The idea was launched in the U.S. by the Knights of Labor in 1882 and was recognized by the lawmakers as a legal holiday in 1894. Canada followed soon after.

In British Columbia, labor will look back on a busy summer in which there were many contract disputes but few strikes.

At the height of the crisis in early July, close to 60,000 workers were threatening to walk off their jobs. Many thousands more would have been idle.

FISHERMEN TIED UP

Only one large group—5,500 coast salmon net fishermen—did go out. They tied up their boats June 22 and returned July 10 after winning concessions from the canners.

The fishermen have staged similar walkouts at the start of the season in recent years.

Most critical threat to the province's economy was the dispute in the coast logging industry.

THREATS

Various groups such as carpenters, electricians, construction workers and others threatened to strike but settlements were hammered out at the last moment.

Nurses in three provincial hospitals also declared they were prepared to strike for higher salaries, but the walkouts were averted.

Much of the credit for the avoidance of strikes belongs to conciliation officers of the provincial labor department, who were kept on the go throughout the summer.

3 Sailors Hurt In Crash Into Sooke Road Gully

Three naval ratings emerged with only slight injuries when a car in which they were riding failed to round a corner and tumbled 30 feet into a gully at Sooke and Kangaroo Roads at 2 a.m. today.

Taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with head cuts and minor abrasions were driver of the car Dave Timms, HMC Dockyard, and passengers Jerome Davis, RCN, 610 McKenzie, and Joe Paulin, HMC Dockyard.

The car had been heading east on Sooke Road towards Victoria, and failed to make a turn on to Kangaroo Road, Sooke RCMP said.

The car, a total wreck, plunged into the gully and came to rest against a telephone pole.

Passengers were later transferred from the Jubilee to Naden Hospital for further treatment.

Davis and Paulin suffered head cuts and minor abrasions, and Timms, head, face and leg cuts.

CITY MAN HOME

Flathead's Bad Name 'Unjustified'

By HUMPHRY DAVY

"I hated coming back."

That was the sentiment of 22-year-old Marc Bell, 742 St. Patrick, University of British Columbia forestry graduate, who has just returned from a two-month expedition to the "Flathead" country, one of the most isolated areas in British Columbia.

Situated in the southeast corner of B.C. the Flathead country is being considered for development as a provincial federal park, Mr. Bell disclosed.

Mr. Bell and an English companion, John Davidson, 21, tramped hundreds of miles in the Flathead country collecting plants for the UBC botanical department and the Provincial Museum.

In all, they collected over 1,000 plants, some of which may turn out to be new species.

These have yet to be identified and sorted out at UBC and by Dr. Adam Szczawinski, Museum botanist.

"The area abounds in big game, fish, birds and wild flowers," Mr. Bell reports. "And the scenery is magnificent."

He described walking over acres of alpine fields covered with red, orange and yellow flowers.

"This may sound like a fish story," he said, "but in one stream we were catching Dolly Varden trout weighing between 30 and 40 pounds. 'I had never seen trout that large.'"

He said they saw plenty of grizzly and black bears.

W. H. Bridges, Ex-Shoe Store Manager, Dies

William Henry Bridges, 84, native of Tonbridge, Kent, England, died here today after 40 years of residence in the city.

He was well known in the retail shoe trade, and for many years was employed at the Old Country Shoe Store, 635 Johnson Street, as manager.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. S. F. Miles, Victoria, and Mrs. J. S. March, Seattle; four grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 3 p.m. at Chaplin's chapel, and interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Victoria Tug Standing By Grounded Packer

Deepsea tug Sudbury of Island Tug and Barge Ltd. today was standing by the 88-foot Seattle fishpacker Malina, which went aground at Carmanah Point Thursday night.

Company officials said the big Victoria tug, accompanied by the smaller Island Planet, arrived at the scene Friday.

The five men aboard the packer when she grounded, 60 miles northwest of Victoria, were taken off by a U.S. Coast Guard cutter.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Why is the Pacific blue rather than the Atlantic?—L.T.

A.—The Pacific is blue because the surface color of the Atlantic is screened by greater masses of the microscopic plant and animal life called plankton. The Pacific has a lower proportion of nitrogen compounds from decaying matter which support plankton.

Q.—Why is the laurel associated with poets?—K.F.

A.—In ancient Greece the laurel tree was considered sacred to the god Apollo, patron of poets. Hence poets who gained distinction were crowned with a wreath of laurel. Thus today we have the term "poet laureate."

Agnes, who has a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

$50 REWARD FOR NABING U.S. ESCAPEE

An escapee from the U.S. penitentiary at McNeil Island, Wash., may have crossed the border into Canada, city police said today.

A $50 reward is offered for capture of the man, who is 39 years of age, 155 lbs., 5' 8 1/2" in height, has blue eyes and grey hair.

He had been serving time for interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle.

'Colorful' Thief Gets Prison Term

Donald Paul Paquette, 20, alias Joe Willows, was sentenced in city police court today to six months definite and two years less a day indeterminate in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla prison for theft of a car from a city car sales lot.

Paquette obtained the late-model car "on trial" from a Yates Street lot last May and gave his name as Joe Willows.

He headed east with the car, travelling under aliases of Williams and Willows and was picked up in Fort William, Ont., Aug. 1.

"You've had a very colorful career, Mr. Willows, haven't you?" Magistrate A. I. Thomas said before sentence.

Larger Tanks For Oil Asked By Fire Chiefs

B.C. fire chiefs in convention here Friday favored increasing the minimum on basement oil storage tanks from the present 50 gallons to 300 gallons.

B.C. is the only province in Canada where the limit is so low. If implemented by the government, this would bring oil storage in line with other provinces.

The resolution has gone to the fire marshal's department for study. A recommendation from that department will go to the province.

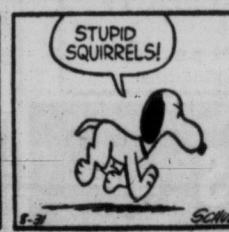

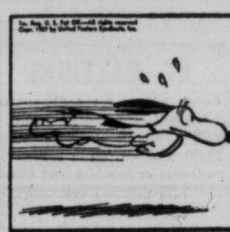

Stores Close at Noon Wednesdays Until Change Made In B.C. Laws

Stores close at noon Wednesday in Victoria from now on. No attempt will be made by the Six-Day Shopping Week Committee of merchants to test the intent of the new Municipal Act, it was announced today.

"We feel very keenly about having to revert to the former 5 1/2-day week," said a committee spokesman.

He said the committee, "sounding out what the reaction would be at City Hall in case stores remained open on Wednesday afternoons, were informed the law would be enforced."

The Municipal Act lists only a few exceptions to the closure, effective Sept. 1.

Memorial For Fireman Killed in 1947

An eye-level memorial window of antique English glass will be dedicated at St. Matthias Church Sunday morning. Canon F. E. M. Tomalin will dedicate the window in memory of Maj. J. T. Harper, MBE, who died on active service during the Second World War, and his fireman son, Leonard Harper, killed in a training accident in 1947 at the Victoria fire hall.

The window, given by relatives, was designed by A. E. Buss, one of the greatest living stained glass artists. It represents the fifth day of Creation depicting the "birds of the air and the fishes of the sea" and completes a series of three "Creation" windows designed for the south side of the church by the same artist.

DOODLING, FLAWS The window incorporates the same imagination and some deliberate flaws and humorous "doodling" which was characteristic of medieval stained glass, Canon Tomalin said.

It is painted and entirely hand-made of rich coloring in figures and decoration, graduating into lighter shades in the background.

The window was made by the firm of Goddard and Gibbs of London, England.

Lourdes Host To Millions For Centenary

LOURDES, France (BUP)—The town of Lourdes in the Pyrenees foothills is expecting 10,000,000 visitors next year. It has a population of only 16,000 itself.

The occasion is the 100th anniversary of the visitations that transformed Lourdes from an almost desolate mountain outpost into a world shrine.

Ten million visitors in a town of 16,000 means 625 visitors for each man, woman and child living in Lourdes. This may seem overwhelming, but Lourdes is used to housing and feeding 3,000,000 pilgrims a year, and the pilgrimages will be spread out over a longer season next year. It begins Feb. 11, the day on which the 14-year-old peasant girl, Bernadette Soubirous, first saw the white-robed figure of "A Smiling Lady," whom church authorities later identified as the Mother of Christ.

The season will continue until the end of the year.

Hospices are going up, an underground basilica (largest of its kind in the world) is under construction. Many of Lourdes' 400 hotels and boarding houses with a present capacity of 30,000 are adding extra wings.

A congregational gift of $700 to help buy a new car came as a "complete surprise" to Rev. G. R. Easter of First Baptist Church this week.

Child-Church Ties' Topic

MONTREAL (BUP)—The sixth biennial congress of the International Catholic Child Bureau, and the first to be held outside Europe, opens at the University of Montreal Sept. 2. The six-day debate—slated to discuss the position of children and the church—will attract more than 1,000 Catholics, representing every western country.

Speakers will include James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, Father Coudreau, sulpician, a director of the Catholic University of Paris and Professor Luigi Gedda, general president of the Italian Catholic Action.

Members of the congregation learned earlier this month that Mr. Easter was faced with driving his old model car back to Rochester, Minn., in September, so that his son John, 22, could have a much-needed check-up at the Mayo Clinic.

Now with $700, the result of two weeks' donations in special envelopes at the church, Mr. Easter has been able to purchase a new car. "It didn't know a thing about it," he said. "It makes a man feel very humble and wish he were more deserving of such generosity."

Lively Maid-of-All-Work Role Wins Former Victorian Praise

By KITT DIXON

A dark-haired gamin has won a lot of laughs and much praise in Theatre Under the Stars' production in Vancouver's Malkin Bowl this summer.

As "Gretchen," exuberant maid-of-all-work at the Heidelberg Inn, in "The Student Prince" (first of the summer's presentations), Victoria-born Dorothy Cook received plaudits for her clever characterization. The role requires Dorothy to portray a pretty but gauche young girl, who, in the final act becomes a sophisticated, domineering woman when she receives an inheritance which enables her to buy the inn.

This role was not Dorothy's first step up the success ladder, for last year she won much applause for roles of "Fifi" in TUTS' production, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and "Bloody Mary's Assistant" in "South Pacific."

Twice she has won the "best actress" award in the annual Vancouver Island Drama Festival.

Dorothy, whose home is now in Duncan, has been studying singing, dancing and acting since she was eight years old, and has taken leading roles in many musicals, including "The Red Mill," "The Country Girl," "Waltz Dream" and "The Fortune Teller."

The lead in a new operetta, "Benjamin's Well," was written especially for Dorothy. Performed in Duncan in late spring, it may appear in Victoria this fall. The plot concerns the history of British Columbia, and is particularly timely with the centennial celebrations in the offing. Former Victorian, T. C. Kilian at Duncan, and has appeared on a number of Victoria radio programs.

She has travelled to Toronto on several occasions for guest concert appearances, and for the past four years has presented her own show, in which she sings, mimics and performs skits and satires. It proved popular entertainment at the last Rotary International convention held in Victoria.

Now that the TUTS season is about over, Dorothy plans to return to her position as manageress of a Duncan china, stationery and toy shop. But if her dream comes true, she'll soon be working full time as a television artist.

"TV is the medium that interests me more than anything else," she says, "and I'd like to make it my career."

Success seems a certainty, for Dorothy has already filmed many TV commercials for Bellingham's KVOS and is quickly becoming well known.

Easy-to-Wash Materials Tops for Schoolgirls

By NONA DAMASKE

Back to school is the topic of conversation among the younger set these days and as far as the girls are concerned there is a real last minute flurry to whip that back-to-school wardrobe into shape.

Away with shorts, pedal pushers and T-shirts and out with skirts, jumpers, sweaters and tailored blouses.

The most wonderful factor of present day school togs is that they are so easy to care for. Perhaps the young people themselves are not so impressed by this fact but for mother it is indeed a blessing. The whole school wardrobe can easily be chosen in washable fabrics and in many cases there is no need to use an iron.

In the early stages of development these wonder fabrics were not very colorful but times have changed all that and now we see Acrlon, Orlon, Terylene and many more in a riot of lovely color.

Washable corduroy is found in every young-age clothing department. Most often it is found in solid shades but there is beginning to be a swing to printed, plaid or striped velvety corduroy.

In the plain colors of red, copper, black and green, Sacony have designed a smart group of co-ordinates. There are simple basic skirts and there are others with a high-rise waistline and over-the-shoulder braces. Matching blouse draw string jackets are as smart as can be and could also be worn with matching or contrasting tapered slacks.

In all age groups there are attractive drip-dry cotton blouses which the young lady of the family could easily rinse out and hang on a hanger. A fresh blouse every day is a good start for a well groomed look.

Orlon is the choice of the back-to-school crowd as far as sweaters are concerned. There is a tendency to want sweaters with more neck detail and the request for three-quarter length sleeves is now being heard.

I must be honest and admit that visiting the back-to-school departments did not make me want to go back to my school-days but it certainly made me realize how very much more attractive and interesting the school wardrobe is today.

Nona

This teen-ager wants a versatile wardrobe so she has one skirt which is really two. Designed of hard-wearing flannel and Acrlon and worn with its own heather jersey blouse, this pleated skirt will change its stripes from light to dark merely by turning it inside out. Practical and fun to wear, this smart outfit will be the mainstay of the high school girl's wardrobe this fall.

Miss Sartain Opens Fine Sketchbook Show

A steady stream of visitors to the board room of the Dominion Hotel Friday afternoon marked opening of the sketchbook show of 100 colored drawings by Betty, Campbell Newton.

The show, under the auspices of the Victoria Sketch Club, will be open from 9 to 10 in the morning, 2 to 4 in the afternoon and again from 9 to 10 in the evening until Wednesday evening.

Miss Newton, artist at the Provincial Museum, shows extreme versatility in her selections and a sensitive feeling for her subjects. The showing included flowers, native villages, general scenes and portrait studies. In the last, a head of a well-known character around Victoria's waterfront some years ago—Bill Nye—is outstanding.

The show was opened by the well-known artist, Miss Emily Sartain. She was introduced by Mrs. Lillian Sweeney, president of the sketch club.

Prior to the opening, Miss Newton entertained at a small luncheon in the Terra Cotta Room at the hotel.

Barrier Cream Protects Busy Housewife's Hands

By PENNY SAVER

A housewife always has a problem keeping her hands looking nice, and this is the very worst time of year with stains from canning fruit and vegetables adding to the usual detergents, bleach, stove-cleaning and gardening that are so hard on hands.

There's a silicone cream that will provide a barrier against stains and moisture and will do a good job of protecting your hands if you apply it before you begin your work. Moisture just beads on the cream and won't penetrate.

The cream is also ideal for people who handle chemicals, fabrics, or other irritants in their jobs.

It can also be used on the baby to prevent diaper rash.

Price of the barrier cream is $1.25 for a good-sized tube.

There is also a silicone-base hand lotion which will help to protect your hands against harsh soaps, chemicals and stains, as well as softening and smoothing them.

This is 79 cents a bottle.

NEW DESIGN

A soft eyebrow pencil is a necessity for darkening eyebrows and "lining" the eyes—a hard one is difficult to use. One very good one is now in a new form. It comes in a container just like an eversharp pencil and can be screwed in and out so that it's always pointed and ready for use.

The pencil comes in black, light and dark brown, and grey, which is nice for use with grey or blonde hair. Price is $1.25, and you can buy two refills for 75 cents.

Astringent lotion gives your skin a smooth finish and helps to eliminate open pores.

A new one 4s to be applied with absorbent cotton at night. This is sufficient if your skin is oily—if it is dry, you can apply your night cream over it.

A large bottle is $2.50.

Lipstick cases get prettier all the time. One popular brand comes in a lovely shimmering pink, blue or white case banded in gold, at $2.50. You can clip in refills at $1.15, so that you can change your lipstick shades as often as you like.

I'll be happy to tell you where I shopped today if you phone me at 2-3131.

Ancient Herb Said To Be Of Benefit To Sore Eyes

By PATRICIA RAE

Q—"I find your column so very interesting and so helpful. I have learned a great deal from it. I wonder if you could discuss the herb Eyebright: Is it quite safe to drink a 1/2 glass of the steeped herb daily? I understand it is of great benefit to the eyes."—"M.B." Oakcrest.

A—Knowing very little about medicinal herbs and never having gone fully into that side of the subject, since I consider it purely for experts, I cannot answer your question without referring to Eleanor Sinclair Rohde and quoting what she says, in answer to your question.

"Eyebright (Euphrasia Officinalis) is one of the loveliest of minute herbs. The ancient Greeks named it after the linnet, who first revealed its virtues to mankind. It has always had the reputation of restoring lost vision and Cullen tells us that if only we knew how to use it properly, spectacle-makers would soon lose their trade! Many herbalists also recommend eye-bright tea.

Eyebright Tea: One pint of boiling water poured on to an ounce of the whole herb."—"A

GEORGE PAYAD

Dresses in Pastel Colors For Late Summer Wedding

Five attendants wearing identical dresses of yellow organdy over rainbow shaded taffeta followed a lovely bride, Miss Marian Irene Lifton, into St. Luke's Anglican Church for her marriage Friday evening to Colin James King.

Rev. Canon George Pike officiated at the ceremony uniting in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Lifton, Christmas Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald J. King, Cordova Bay Road.

The bride walked up the aisle on the arm of her father to an altar decorated with white gladioli and asters. Baskets of multi-colored gladioli filled the front of the church.

Layers of net over taffeta created the floor-length bridal gown. A round yoke neckline was encrusted with pearls, and lace sleeves tapered to points at the wrists. The fingertip veil, studded with rhinestones, was held by a pearl coronet, and the bride's only jewelry was pearl earrings. Cascading red roses and white carnations formed the bridal bouquet.

Mrs. A. S. Evans was matron of honor for her sister, and her gown was of yellow organdy over green taffeta. Mrs. C. R. Vater and Mrs. F. Easton, both sisters of the bride, were brides-matrons, the former in a gown of yellow over peach, the latter wearing yellow over copper-toned taffeta. Mrs. D. Hope, groom's sister, was also brides-matron, in a gown of yellow over tangerine. All attendants wore bandeaux matching the taffeta and covered with yellow flowers, and carried bouquets of cascading yellow and white gladioli.

Miss Louise Evans, niece of the bride, was flower girl in a mauve taffeta dress with yellow organdy overskirt. She carried a basket of yellow gladioli and white sweetpeas.

John King was best man for his brother, while Allan Lifton, brother of the bride, Charles White and Joseph Smith ushered.

Frank Renole proposed a toast to the bride's happiness at a reception at the C.C.F. Hall.

For a honeymoon touring Vancouver Island, the bride chose a blue-grey tailored suit with beige accessories and corsage of white roses. The couple plan to spend a week later on a yachting cruise, and will make their home at 744 Cordova Bay Road.

SHOULD SHE TAKE A GIFT? I have been invited to an informal luncheon given on the birthday of a woman I admire very much but don't know very well. Should I take along a gift? I mean, is this expected? I would be most embarrassed if I were the only one who brought a present.

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

It would have been helpful if your hostess had said when inviting you, "no presents, please." Or she could have eased the awkward situation by saying, "We're all going to give her something expensive." In which case, she could have put a limit on the cost, such as a dollar. But since nothing was said, I think it would be wise for you to be on the safe side by taking a little something. You can get an attractive birthday card and enclose a pretty white linen handkerchief. After all, your hostess must have said that the day is to be the guest of honor's birthday, so I think she was suggesting a gift without saying it. If you are still in doubt, you can phone her. Tell her that you don't know the woman well enough to know what she would like, and would she help with some suggestions. I'm sure that if you attend the party bearing a gift, you won't be the only one, for the other guests were undoubtedly told that it was to celebrate Mrs. So and So's birthday.

Mary Jean Levirs Becomes Bride Of Peter Smith This Afternoon

A wedding of wide interest was solemnized this afternoon in Fairfield United Church when Mary Jean Levirs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Levirs, 311 Windermere Place, became the bride of Peter Lawson Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Smith, 1764 Cedar Hill Crossroad. Blue asters and hydrangeas and white gladioli decorated the church for the ceremony performed by Rev. Thomas Haythorne, and traditional music furnished by Mrs. Rodney Webster.

Coming up the aisle on her father's arm, the bride formed a charming picture in her ball-length gown of rich white tulle and lace, and was accompanied by her bridesmaid, Miss Ruth Webster, in a dress of copper-toned brocade featuring short, shirred sleeves and lowered waistline and wore matching Juliet cap, gloves and shoes. Bronze chrysanthemums were in her cascade bouquet. Paul Smith was best man for his brother and ushers were Ron Hansen, Vancouver, Don Oliver and Des Cory.

Club Tango was decorated with blue and white flowers for the reception. The three-tier wedding cake, decorated in white and silver and topped with blue cornflowers, was flanked with blue candles. H. M. Evans proposed the bridal toast. The bride's mother wore a green and white print dress with green duster, beige hat and pink rose corsage, while the groom's mother chose a black corded silk duster ensemble with white hat and gardenia corsage.

The newlyweds left for a honeymoon in New York City, the bride travelling in a blue cotton lace sheath dress with blue tweed coat, blue accessories, and pink baby orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will live in New Haven, Conn., where the groom is studying at Yale University for his Doctor of Philosophy degree.

Olde England Inn was scene of a reception where a three-tier all-white wedding cake centred the bride's table. Thomas Moffett proposed a toast to the new Mrs. Wilkinson.

For her travelling costume, the bride donned a blue wool crepe dress, white bandeau hat and navy blue accessories. The young couple will honeymoon up-Island and plan to make their home in Victoria.

Heirloom Gold Necklace Complements Bridal Gown

An heirloom filigree gold necklace inset with seed pearls was the jewelry worn by a charming bride for her wedding late yesterday afternoon in Fairfield United Church. Rev. T. Haythorne officiated at the quiet ceremony uniting in marriage Marion Lois, daughter of the late Mr. C. A. McLean and Mrs. McLean, Moss Street, and Gerald Spencer Kent, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Ray Kent, Medicine Hat, Alta.

The bride walked up the aisle on the arm of her brother, R. A. McLean, to an altar decorated with mixed gladioli, yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

Her ballerina-length gown of white nylon featured a shirred bodice and boat neckline coming to a V at the back. A taria of pearls held the bride's shoulder-length veil of illusion net, and yellow roses, heather and fern formed the crescent-shaped bridal bouquet.

WEDDING MUSIC

Soloist was Miss Jane Scofield, who sang the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Carol McLeod was matron of honor for her sister, and wore a ballerina-length dress of aqua shantung with an apricot-colored gladioli bouquet and matching headpiece.

Miss Lynne McLeod was flower girl in a white nylon frock embellished with peach and gold. She carried a colonial bouquet of mixed flowers.

John Kent was best man for his brother, while Albion Kent, second brother of the groom, was usher.

Oak Bay Beach Hotel was setting for a family dinner after the wedding, where John McLeod proposed a toast to the bride's happiness. A wedding cake was decorated with yellow

In Honor of The Bride

Miss Sheila Hardie, September bride-elect, was honored at a recent linen shower given by Misses Sharon Malcolm and Gloria Molofy. Gifts were arranged in a white and blue basket, and Sharon, dressed in a Dutch costume, handed gifts to the guest of honor. Guests included Misses Nan Baxter, Sheila Kingham, Susan Reid, Audrey Hogg, Denise Yates, Lorraine Brand, Barbara Hawkes, Heather Cox, Marilyn Bassett and Sandra Humber.

Miss Hardie was guest of honor with Miss Mary Jean Levirs at another shower given by the staff of the Department of Education at the Parliament Buildings. Gifts for the bride-to-be were concealed in two labelled steamer trunks.

Miss Levirs was feted at another shower given for her and Mrs. Joseph Picha, former Miss Katharine Riddle. Hostess was Miss Audrey Beaumont. Corsages were presented to the guests of honor, and gifts were arranged in two small schoolhouses.

CEREMONY ON SKEENA

The two-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Corder, pictured here with his mother, received the names Kenneth Raymond at a recent christening ceremony aboard HMCS Skeena. The baby wore a white silk gown which has been in the family for 38 years. A family reception followed at the parents' home, 450 Rainbow Drive, Belmont Park.

FUR COATS, LARGE HATS OUT IN QUEEN'S WARDROBE

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth has ruled out fur coats and fur-lined coats for her coming Canada-United States tour—they might muffle her trim figure.

She'll wear no large or fluffy hats that might obscure her face.

The Queen will take at least 30 outfits for her tour which begins Oct. 12.

Her suits will be fur-trimmed and so will her coats. But should the weather of Ottawa, New York, Washington or Virginia be cold rather than the cool-nippy she expects, an emergency fur coat will be in the wardrobe.

The Queen's hats, mostly from France, as usual will be on the tiny side to allow full view of her rose-pink complexion and brown hair.

The hems of her skirts will be slightly higher, in line with the new trend in Paris.

FOUR GENERATIONS

When Mrs. J. K. Urquhart was in Victoria from Salmon Arm recently there was a gathering of four generations at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Rumball, 3120 Albina Street. The foursome included Mrs. Urquhart, right, Mrs. Rumball, centre; her daughter, Mrs. L. 'Piedt, on arm of chair and 20-month-old Deborah Lynne Piedt. The Piedts live at 570 Broadway in Victoria.

Flying Over Desert Areas 'Boon' to Canadian Airman

By DAVE OANCIA

GAZA, Egypt (CP) — Seven months of keeping airplanes flying through the heat and sandstorms of the Sinai Desert has been "a mighty fine experience" for Wing Cmdr. Art Byford of Ottawa.

On the eve of his departure for Paris as assistant Canadian military representative at the supreme headquarters, he told of his problems as air staff officer under Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian commander of the United Nations Emergency Force.

Byford's successor, Wing Cmdr. W. C. Klassen of North Battleford, Sask., sat silently as the Ottawa man talked of the hectic "crash operation" which followed the creation of the inter-national army.

A CHALLENGE

"I was happy to be tied up with this force from the begin-ning," Byford said. "The oper-ation will never be routine but in recent months it has settled into more of a pattern."

The youthful-looking officer came to the job with a wealth of experience that included flying heavy bombers during the Second World War, handling transports in Korea and a stint at RCAF headquarters in Ot-tawa. Before his UNEF assign-ment he commanded the station at Centralia, Ont.

The pattern of life was al-ways changing during his early days in Egypt. One of his first tasks was to negotiate with the Nasser government to establish corridors for his planes.

"We didn't have enough air-craft to handle all the jobs we were called on to do," he re-called. "We just had to deal with the situations as they came up."

RICH BACKGROUND

Klassen takes over after two tours of operations as a bomber pilot that included Middle East service, instructing experience and finally a transport com-mand assignment that took him to Edmonton to command No. 435 Transport Squadron.

"It's a big change for me," he said. "A few months ago we were pushing aircraft into the western Arctic before break-up to supply the weather stations."

The UNEF air arm consists of four Otters and two DC-3s operating in the Sinai and four Naples-based C-119 Flying Box-cars. Planes and crew were contributed by Canada.

"We co-operate with all con-tingents and units," said By-ford. "If there is a need for a rescue, a supply run or a medi-cal evacuation, we'll do it."

VERSATILE CRAFT

The Canadian-designed and built Otter have demonstrated their versatility. Because the single-engine craft can land or take off in short distances, their pilots set down on roads, be-tween minefields and on any adequate, level stretch of desert.

Winter sandstorms, summer heat and scarcity of navigation aids hampered the pilots. The Royal Canadian Signals have in-stalled a small beacon at El Arish, soon to become the main UNEF air station, to enable pilots to "home" on the air-field.

Construction crews are com-pleting a hangar and quarters at El Arish, some 60 miles from the UNEF's Gaza headquarters, and hope to have the field ready for use by the end of August. Abu Suweir, the present base, is 150 miles from Gaza.

Children Gain In Stature In Austria

VIENNA (Reuters) — Aus-tria's children are growing taller. A 14-year-old child of average height today can look proudly down on a life-size statue of Emperor Charles V, who, four centuries ago, was known as one of the tallest of the Hapsburg rulers.

Within the last 50 years, the height of the average Austrian youngster has increased by four to 4 1/2 inches.

Clothing and shoe shops have had to introduce new junior and teenage sizes, as many boys and girls no longer were able to find clothing to fit them in the children's departments of the stores.

School authorities have begun to enforce an order, first issued before the war, that larger desks be provided in Austria's public schools as the old desks, some dating to the last century, were "far too small."

Doctors have pointed out the small desks endanger the health of pupils as they are forced to squeeze into them.

In hospitals and youth hostels the old beds are gradually being replaced by larger ones.

Medical authorities say the reasons for the increased growth are mainly a better diet, more participation in sports and better housing.

Ladysmith Invests In Crown Property

LADYSMITH — City council decided this week to make a deposit of 50 cents per acre on 100 acres of Crown grant land on Arbutus Hill as an invest-ment.

The payment will reserve the land in case the city needs it in the future.

Reds Banish
Two Bishops

VIENNA (UP) — The puppet government of Red Hungary announced today it has deposed two Roman Catholic bishops and "banished" them to the tiny village of Hejce, in northeastern Hungary.

At the same time, there were growing indications that the Reds are about ready to stage propaganda "trials" of freedom premier Imre Nagy and Father Egon Tucsanyi, secretary of Josef Kardinal Mindszenty.

Imre Miklos, deputy chairman of the Communist church office, said the prelates restricted to Hejce are bishops Bertalan Badalik of Veszprem and Jozsef Pateri of Vac.

More Cowpokes Ride To Television Glory

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Intoxi-cated by the sweet smell of success, Warner Brothers is putting three more cowpokes on the road to—it is hoped—TV fame.

The studio started out in the TV field with hour-long dramas based on three old movies—Casablanca, Cheyenne and King's Row. Only Cheyenne proved to have the go-power, as they say in TV, to succeed. It made a star of towering Clint Walker.

Now Warner is entering three new leads in the horse opey sweepstakes. The new shows are Colt 45 with Wayne Pres-ner, Maverick with James Gar-nay, and Sugarfoot with Will Hutchins. Viewers may be trampled by adult westerns this season.

OFF-BEAT TEXAN

I visited one of the fledgling western heroes—the one named Hutchins. Watching him in a courtroom scene, I observed that he was sandy-haired, slim, tall six feet even, but boot heels raise him further and slightly off-beat.

"What part of Texas are you from?" I asked.

"I'm sorry, but I'm from Los Angeles," he replied—and east Los Angeles at that. But he did go to college in the western part.

Contractor At Ottawa Bankrupt

OTTAWA (BUP)—Construc-tion work on the federal govern-ment's new trade and com-merce building and veteran's affairs building ground to a halt with the announcement that the George Hardy Con-struction Company of Ajax, Ont., went bankrupt.

The bankrupt company had a contract with the Federal Gov-ernment for $6,637,126 covering the construction of the two buildings. However, the gov-ernment held back 15 per cent of the cost of the buildings.

Some 200 men employed by the construction company on the two government jobs re-ceived notice on Friday that there would be no further work on the buildings and they did not show up on the job Monday.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL
Q—(1) Can meconopsis (the blue poppy) be divided or be grown from cuttings? I have no luck with seed.
(2) Can cuttings be taken of annuals?
(3) What is done to fuchsias when they outgrow the largest pots? Do they ever stop needing repotting?—M.E.B., Brentwood.

A—(1) Meconopsis is readily grown from seed if it is sown while fresh, that is, a few days after it is taken from the pod. Division and cuttings are not recommended unless you have many plants with which to experiment. Transplanting should only be done if absolutely necessary, and then with as little root disturbance as possible.
(2) Yes, as covered in a recent column, many annuals such as lobelia, ageratum, heliotrope, agatheia, gazania and salvia are commonly increased by cuttings. Others such as snapdragons, petunia and nemesia may be tried.
(3) When fuchsias become pot bound in a seven or eight-inch pot they start to flower and should not be repotted until growth starts again in the spring.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Clear beds of as many annuals as possible so that soil may be dug and prepared for planting of bulbs or permanent features such as trees or shrubs.

Sow seeds indoors of schizanthus (butterfly flower) for large pot plants next April and May.

Clean greenhouse glass inside and out while weather is pleasant. Check heating system and replace broken or cracked glasses.

Decrease watering of cacti and keep them in cool quarters over winter. Succulents require slightly higher temperatures, stronger light, and more careful watering during the dull days.

Pick apples and pears at the right time according to variety. Early pears may be kept a week or so if picked while still green.

Dig potatoes as the tops die down.

Water newly planted straw berry bed.

Use July sown vegetables while young and tender. Beets and turnips become woody if left too long in the soil.

Prune peach trees, removing the shoots which had fruit this year. Spray immediately with a good fungicide as a control for peach-leaf curl.

Roses should be sprayed regularly. If a general-purpose spray or dust is applied weekly, roses can be grown free of insect damage.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Harvesting or Holidaying Gardener Is on His Toes

By JACK BEASTALL

Labor Day weekend is the last holiday of the summer season and here are some suggestions for passing the hours between now and sunrise Tuesday morning.

Picnics are always welcome either at the beach or a lake, or among the flowers in Beacon Hill Park or Butchart's Gardens. By the water one can accumulate sunburn, and among the flowers one can accumulate ideas for next year's Centennial garden.

A drive into the country can be relaxing. It can also be rewarding if one returns with a trailer-load of good topsoil, barnyard manure, or needed rocks.

For those who prefer a mixture of riding and walking, this weekend is ideal for visiting

Modernization Of House Might Cost $6,000

How much would it cost to modernize the average old house completely?

Estimates vary, but around six thousand dollars seems to be an average figure.

According to home builders, all older houses need new wiring systems to handle modern appliances. Most need modernized kitchens with more storage nearly a must in every more-than-10-year-old house.

Nine out of 10 need new roofs, either because the old one has faded or because a new addition to the old home has made the old roof look shabby.

Eight of 10 need insulation, because houses built in the past few years are not adequately insulated by today's standards.

Seven out of 10 need new heating systems, new bathrooms and more windows, according to the builders.

local nurseries. Here can be seen rows of plants suitable for local gardens, comparisons made of their habits of growth and flowering, and one can become acquainted with subjects never seen before.

WORK FOR CHANGE

A combined educational and pleasure outing is a visit to the fall fair at Saanichton. This is the place to go if you have any doubts about the Saanich peninsula being a farming district.

While many of us will be looking for pleasure and relaxation, we must not forget the ones who prefer to work as a change for the holiday.

For these we suggest putting the final touches to the area where the new lawn is to be planted, or even sowing the seed if everything is in readiness.

Thirty years ago, before cars, highways, deep freezers, and television sets were essential to the standard of living, Labor Day weekend was considered the correct time to start digging the main crops for winter storage.

Fire Guard Your Own Household

CHICAGO (UP)—A one-hour inspection of your home may save you from injury, death or property loss by fire.

The National Fire Protection Association said the inspection should start with the kitchen—checking heating and cooking equipment. Check the living room for frayed wires or an improperly protected fireplace. Check all wiring in the basement, attic and closets and see that rubbish has not collected. Above all, keep matches, lighters and flammable liquids well out of the reach of children.

Q—What will remove chewing gum that is matted into your living room rug?

A—A good sponging with denatured alcohol or carbon tetrachloride should do the trick. If you use carbon tetrachloride, be careful. While not flammable, carbon tet is poisonous. Work with windows open, and use the cleanser sparingly. If spot is not in range of direct air currents, set up a fan nearby to blow fumes away from working area.

Neglected Windows Retaliate By 'Clamming Up' on Owner

By MR. FIX

In addition to looking through them, what have you done about your windows lately? Washed them? That isn't enough.

First of all, lubrication is called for.

Windows have moving parts and, as in everything else, maintenance is easier than repairing. Arm yourself with some paraffin, a grease stick, a tube of powdered graphite, an oil can with a long, flexible spout. With all this you're ready for anything. You'll find the assortment is handy for doors, too.

USE THE GREASE STICK on the window slides. A light rubbing will last a long time. Melted or block paraffin can be brushed onto sliding parts. Use extreme care in using melted paraffin to avoid burns. Melt in double boiler only.

The ordinary double-hung window should be lubricated at the pulley, the slots in which the window slides, and on the stop beads—the wood strips holding the window in place.

PULL DOWN the top half of the window so that the pulleys are exposed. Lubricate the pulley shafts with oil or graphite. Casement windows have special opening mechanisms—cranks or slides. Keep them lubricated with oil or graphite. SOMETIMES the problem you'll face is more difficult. Painting, while wonderful for house and window frames, is murder for the poor handy man who tries to open a window a few days later. A seal of hardened paint presents a problem that should be approached with care.

Even if the paint job isn't recent, you can have trouble. Damp weather causes the wood to swell, makes the paint soft and sticky. When it hardens the windows are sealed shut.

DON'T ATTACK the frame with a screwdriver and a hammer. Remember, you only wish to break the paint seal. You don't want to tear the frame apart. Get at the window from the outside if you can. Try working the paint loose with a putty knife.

Earth Satellite Sets Tone For Geo-Science Conference

Displays of the latest in geophysical equipment will salute a world gathering of scientists, a thousand or more of them, who are converging on Toronto for the 11th General Assembly of the IUGG (International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics), Sept. 3-14. One of the main interests of the assembly is to review the progress of the world's greatest scientific adventure, the International Geophysical Year (IGY), launched on July 1. Theme of several of the displays is also the IGY.

At the Royal Ontario Museum, where the opening reception will be held, a full-size model of the IGY Vanguard rocket and a working replica of the United States earth satellite will be on view to the public. The satellite is provided by the U.S. National Research Council. At Hart House of the University of Toronto, location of the assembly meetings, a trade exhibit will be staged by about 30 leading geophysical companies of Canada, the United States and Europe, in fact from countries as far apart as Japan and East Germany.

During the IUGG Assembly the Canadian International Air

Show, Sept. 6-7, will display fixed-wing aircraft and helicopters, as equipped for air surveys and geophysical work. Various commercial organizations in Toronto are arranging window displays on an IGY theme.

Delegates from 40-odd countries have registered for the IUGG Assembly. The meeting will be covered by more than 100 top science writers from many countries.

96 FROM U.K. The largest group of scientists from overseas will come from the United Kingdom. These will number about 90, representing British universities and government research centres. France will send 78 delegates, the USSR 57, Germany 37, Holland 27, Italy 24, Sweden 22, Japan 18, Switzerland 16, Belgium 15, Spain 14, Poland 10.

More than 300 Americans and 150 Canadians will participate, and small groups are coming from about 30 other countries. The assemblies of the IUGG take place every three years. The last meeting was held in Rome in 1954.

CPA FLIES FIRST POLIO SHOTS TO SPAIN

VANCOUVER — Canadian Pacific Airlines inaugural flight Thursday from Toronto and Montreal to Madrid will carry the first Salk polio vaccine to enter Spain.

The vaccine shipment is a gift to the Madrid British-American Hospital, a small non-profit institution, from Connaught Medical Research Laboratories of Toronto.

Salk vaccine has not yet been used in Spain by public health authorities. The Canadian Embassy, upon hearing that the British-American Hospital was anxious to receive a supply of vaccine, made arrangements for the shipment in conjunction with CPA's inaugural flight.

STREET NAMED DESIRE

Clean Break Made By U.K. Journalist

HORNCHURCH, Eng. (AP) — Gerry German, a successful journalist for 20 years, today started on a career he likes better—sweeping the streets of his city.

German, 51, worked for newspapers in London and other cities of southern England. Until recently he was chief reporter, a post comparable to that of city editor of a North American newspaper, on The Romford Recorder.

Today, with broom, car and shovel, he started his new career in the busy season of the street-cleaning business. The leaves are beginning to fall.

"I should have changed jobs years ago," he said as he used his broom for leaning purposes.

Granny Rocks Chair to New 93-Hour High

TRURO, N.S. (CP) — A little grey-haired grandmother knitted and read her way through 93 hours and eight minutes of rocking to claim the world rocking chair championship.

Mrs. Ralph Weir, 52, began rocking Tuesday and outlasted three men and two other women in a contest sponsored by the Truro Agricultural Exhibition. She quit today.

Telegrams of congratulation poured into the mother of 14 children after she broke the record, set by a Quebec woman. Mrs. Weir took an hour off when she learned she had won but planned to rock at least until noon "to get a good start on anyone else that tries."

Another woman, 28-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Stewart, slipped off her rocker early today, sound asleep.

Good Stories Got Customers 'Happy' Pills

TORONTO (CP) — J. C. Turnbull, secretary of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association, said Friday the federal drug inspectors who bought barbiturates at 127 Canadian drug stores must have done so only because they "told pretty convincing stories."

He was commenting on an announcement Thursday by Dr. C. A. Morrell, director of the food and drug division of the federal health department, at the national conference of police chiefs in London, Ont.

Dr. Morrell said charges would be laid against 127 drug stores that sold the restricted tranquilizers to investigators who posed as private citizens in 2,300 stores across Canada.

Who Is Who For Royal Do?

OTTAWA (CP) — Government officials planning the Queen's visit to Ottawa in October still are trying to decide who to invite to what and when.

They've solved some problems, but not all. The invitation policy, which will receive Prime Minister Diefenbaker's personal attention, still hasn't been decided.

But it's a good bet that the Table of Precedence for Canada will be the main guide when invitations go out. The table starts with the governor-general and runs the gamut through such dignitaries as ambassadors, provincial lieutenant-governors, privy councillors, members of parliament, justices and high churchmen. It covers about 1,000 persons.

Roughly 1,000 persons invited according to precedence will be jammed into the Senate chamber when Queen Elizabeth opens parliament Oct. 14. The Senate floor will accommodate 566 persons, and the two galleries a total of 241.

MASSEY STAYS HOME

Governor-General Massey, who normally opens parliament, will stay at home. An official explained that it would not be proper for the Queen's representative to attend such a function presided over by the Queen.

In addition to the invited guests, members of the House of Commons will stand at the bar of the Senate, at the rear of the chamber.

Men attending the opening of parliament must wear military uniforms or morning coats with their decorations. Women will be dressed in evening gowns and wear their decorations.

Perhaps 1,000 or more will be invited to a government reception the afternoon of Oct. 15 in the Chateau Laurier where they will be presented to the Queen. It is likely that heads of various national organizations will be invited along with more senior members of the diplomatic corps and high government officials.

A state dinner at Government House, Oct. 14, will seat about 100 persons, mainly the higher echelon of the precedence list.

Inco Research helps Canada grow

A vast network of Inco mines and plants now obtains 14 elements from ore once thought to contain only copper. Millions are being spent each year for Inco research to recover new products and develop better methods.

NEW WEALTH FOR CANADA FROM INCO ORES

Inco Research finds ways to recover 14 different elements from Inco's Sudbury ores

IMAGINE—14 elements from one ore deposit! But it wasn't always that way. At first Inco ore was mined for one metal—copper. It turned out that the ore contained more nickel than copper. To make use of the ore at all, research had to work out a method of separating the nickel from the copper.

Since that time, Inco research has developed ways of recovering twelve other elements, most of which are present in the ore in minute quantities.

Gold and silver came first, recovered from the sludge left after refining nickel and copper. Then one after another came platinum,

Sulphur gases are recovered in large and increasing quantities for conversion into industrial products.

After several years of cobalt oxide production, electrolytic cobalt was added to the list of Inco products. In 1955, a 19-million dollar plant was built to obtain exceptionally high-grade iron ore previously lost in the slag.

Thus does Inco research continue to develop new products and processes that help stimulate the growth of Canadian industry and provide jobs for Canadians.

'MIKE' PEARSON SAYS:

Syria Red Plot And the 'Bomb'

By LESTER B. PEARSON
(Copyright 1957. All rights reserved.)

Americans—and to some extent Canadians—tend to think in terms of total and decisive result; of unconditional achievement, whether it is the moving of a mountain, the solution of a political problem or the winning of a war.

The American experience up to 1946 seemed to establish the validity and the value of this approach. As applied to contemporary international problems, however, it has its limitations. It is not easy, now, to find clear-cut solutions for issues which do not present themselves in a clear-cut way; especially those raised by the menace of the international Communist conspiracy.

PEARSON

expresses itself as conventional military aggression we at least know where we are, and we have methods to deal with it. In the future, however, we are more likely to be confronted with aggression of a different type. The U.S.S.R. may once have been tempted to strike openly by military means against Western Europe. If so, that temptation must have been reduced, if not removed, by the formation of NATO and by the certainty of swift and devastating retaliation by the U.S. strategic air force. In this respect, nuclear power remains essential for deterrence and defence.

Savage Hatred of Neighbor

While the danger of this kind of aggression has diminished, that from other forms, more difficult to detect and perhaps to defeat, has increased. There is certainly no reason to believe yet that the ultimate objectives of international Communism have changed, or that its threat to peace and freedom has ended. But now the expression of that threat has altered and methods are being followed which involve conflict short of war.

In dealing with these methods, the threat of massive nuclear retaliation will not be of much help because the attack will be massive only in a political sense. You cannot defeat political aggression by the use or threat of an atom bomb. The implications of this truth—for defence as well as diplomacy—are important.

Syria is a good example of what I mean. It is fertile ground for aggression by subversion, and also for the realization of the historic Russian dream of expansion into the Mediterranean. The dominant characteristics of the country are embittered nationalism and "anti-colonialism," a savage hatred of a neighbor, Israel, and political instability. Syrian governments change with bewildering and revolutionary rapidity. Since independence was achieved in 1943 there have been more than 24 changes of government; including five military coups d'état in the last eight years. Economic progress is slow and poverty is widespread.

The situation is thus ideal for Communist and Soviet penetration, the results of which have now become ominously apparent. Syria may in fact become a Soviet base under Soviet control.

Auction Rooms Sealed Off In $50,000 Mystery Fire

CANAL CLOSURE THREATENED

CAIRO (UP)—A Cairo newspaper said today that Egypt would close the Suez Canal if any military attack were made against Syria in the current U.S.-Syrian crisis.

The paper Al Shaab, in a front-page article datelined Beirut, said it has become clear to special U.S. Middle East envoy Loy Henderson that "the Arab States would adopt a unified stand against any nation that intervened against Syria."

The newspaper added that in such an event Egypt would close the Suez Canal, "completely wiping out the West's remaining interests in the Middle East."

Leaking Boat Holding Own Off Coast

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—The 67-foot fishpacker Cape Perry with 10 persons aboard, was reported holding its own in rough weather after being holed early today in Hecate Strait.

RCAF and U.S. Coast Guard aircraft were searching for the vessel about 20 miles off Cape George, 40 miles southwest of here.

Manager C. E. Salter of the Canadian Fishing Company, owners of the boat, said the skipper, Henry Helin reported at 5 a.m. the boat had developed a leak during a 45-mile-an-hour gale.

He said later reports indicated the crew were holding their own with pumps but weather conditions were still bad.

At least 12 fishing craft in the area reported they were searching for the Cape Perry.

The RCAF search and rescue centre in Vancouver said a plane was sent to the area as soon as the distress signal was received and a second aircraft left at 11 a.m. to join the search.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Father of all good men and of those not so good, who yearn for the return of every prodigal son and wayward daughter, grant unto us in overflowing measure the grace of forgiveness. Help us to be moved with compassion for those who have wronged us sorely and who threaten the precious values we prize so dearly because we have ourselves known the blessedness of our Lord's forgiveness and in his name. Amen.

Probers Search Ruins for Cause

Provincial fire marshal investigators sealed off the Maynard & Sons Auctioneers building at 733 Johnson today as they sought the cause of an early-morning blaze that caused damage estimated at $50,000.

The fire, which swept through the three-storey brick structure with explosive force, is known to have started in the basement but its cause remained a mystery.

The alarm was turned in at 1:23 a.m. by taxi driver Hugh Campbell, 2640 Blanshard, who was returning to the Quarter Cab dispatch office from a call. Plate glass windows at the front of the building were blown out and flames billowed through the main floor when firemen arrived.

A second alarm was turned in immediately and all firemen and equipment were ordered to the scene.

Flames were brought under control after a 90-minute struggle led by Chief Frank Briers.

One fireman, Jim Marshall, 1526 Westall, was overcome by smoke and rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was released after treatment.

Arthur R. Roberts, 935 Foul Bay, president of the firm, said today the building was chock-full of household furnishings and antiques.

Most of the damage was done to goods on the main floor and in the basement.

Antiques stored on the top floors suffered smoke damage but many articles will be recoverable.

Although firemen kept the flames from spreading to the top floors, a number of items, including pianos, were scorched by the heat.

Mr. Roberts said the building was especially full because last week's auction was called off for a staff holiday.

Modern household furnishings were gathered on the main floor for a sale next Wednesday, and the antiques were accumulated for a sale in two weeks.

The president said Maynards, a long-established Victoria firm, will continue business as soon as temporary quarters are found.

The firm was "very well insured," Mr. Roberts said.

Total value of the contents, most on consignment for sale, is believed to be about $50,000. Interior woodwork of the building was heavily damaged, but the brick frame is undamaged.

The building presented a jumbled scene of charred woodwork, broken glass and blackened furniture to passers-by this morning.

A police constable stood guard at the door, while a fireman hosed down smouldering chesterfields and woodwork inside.

An assistant provincial fire marshal from Vancouver who had been in Victoria for the convention of fire chiefs this week, took over the investigation.

B.C. Boy's Road Death First of Holiday Toll

(By The Canadian Press) Hopes rose for a light toll of accidental deaths as Canada's Labor Day weekend began with six accidental fatalities reported in the first 16 hours.

Five of the deaths were in traffic accidents, a Canadian Press survey shows.

In Vancouver a five-year-old boy became British Columbia's first Labor Day weekend traffic fatality. He was Gary Peter, who died in Vancouver General Hospital a few hours after being struck Friday night by a car in Burnaby.

LEAD WORLD AS SMOKERS

Canadians Drink Like Fish But Model of Sanctity at Home

LONDON (CP)—A British publication says Canadians smoke like chimneys, drink like fish, rank high among the world's drug addicts and are a model of propriety in their regard for the sanctity of the home and of human life.

What's more, it has the statistics to prove it. A survey published by The Economist shows Canadians smoke 6.9 pounds of tobacco a head every year, barely nosing out United States citizens. The average Briton consumes 4.8 pounds while the Italian gets by with 2.1.

Belgians are the world champion beer-drinkers, putting away 30.8 gallons apiece annually to 23.8 for the average Australian, 21.8 for the New Zealander and 17.8 for the Briton. Canadians rank seventh with 13.3 gallons apiece, just ahead of the Americans' 13.1.

But the Canadian needs 40 gallons of spirits a year to quench a thirst exceeded in intensity only by that of the American (.89 gallons), the German (.52), the New Zealander (.48) and the New Zealander (.46).

The Economist apologizes for putting Canada at the head of a 14-country list of drug addicts—figures are not available for Japan and the Middle East, where the rate is known to be higher.

Its table puts Canada, with 220 addicts for each 1,000,000 of population, ahead of Norway's 175, Denmark's 135 and Britain's 66.

Britain, with six, is at the bottom of the list, just ahead of Russia and France, with two apiece.

But Canada's 1.1 suicides a 100,000 take 18th place in a list of 22 countries topped by West Berlin with 29.6 and Japan with 25.2. Its 1.1 murders a 100,000 are halfway down a table headed by Alaska with 7.4 and the United States with 4.8.

Alaska and the U.S. again head the list in divorces with 2.58 and 2.35, respectively, a thousand population. Canada's 0.37 is 18th among the 20 countries, well below Britain's 0.55, only Mexico, with 0.36, and Portugal, with 0.11, have a lower divorce rate.

The Economist also notes that Canada seems to lead the world in confidence that its citizens will obey its laws. It employs only 1.1 policemen to keep an eye on every 1,000 inhabitants while France requires 3.0 and even the traditionally law-abiding Britons require 1.5.

Fancy Building New Home for Big Auto Union

DETROIT (AP) — "And this house, which is high, shall be an astonishment to everyone that passeth by it."

The United Auto Workers Union proudly quotes this verse from Chronicles II to describe Solidarity House, its international headquarters on the Detroit River front.

Built six years ago at a cost of $1,250,000, Solidarity House is an ultra-modern structure of glass, aluminum, steel, brick and stone. An addition, costing $1,500,000 is nearing completion. It will add four and one-half storeys at some levels to the original three-storey centre.

SHARP CONTRAST

Solidarity House, with sleek beauty of contemporary architecture, contrasts with the UAW's former home in a drab brick building under the shadow of the massive General Motors building.

SYMBOL OF GROWTH

Solidarity House symbolizes the growth of the 1,500,000-member union.

It is only a beginning. UAW president Walter P. Reuther is planning to develop Solidarity House into the "labor university of the future."

Your first impression of Solidarity House is that of a big business office building.

The UAW is big business. The union has a net worth of about $35,000,000 and liquid assets of more than $26,000,000. It meets a $500,000 monthly payroll. As an employer it bargains with three other unions on wage scales for some of its 400 employees.

The building houses more than 50 departments and councils such as education, research, political action, citizenship, retired workers.

The union has acquired the old Edsel Ford stone mansion, birthplace of Henry Ford II, and a three-storey brick mansion next door.

In developing a labor university, the UAW plans to convert the Ford mansion into a residential hall for full-time students. The mansion next door will be made into an education centre.

Reuther says: "In labor educational circles, for a long time, there has been felt a need for a 'labor university.' It should be possible at this institution to help UAW staff members and local union officers broaden their understanding of the history, philosophy and morality of the union movement and to offer training which can be put to use in the administration of the union, and in collective bargaining."

"Management groups have available to them a school of business administration in which are being trained future leaders of the business community. No university makes available to the labor movement any really comparable service."

Larger Market For Small Cars Seen in U.S.

DETROIT (AP) — A larger market for the smaller, lower-priced car in the United States during the months ahead appears to be assured. Some industry experts are saying that nearly 400,000 such units will be sold in the U.S. market in 1958.

Broadening of the American market for the smaller car has been a development of the last four or five years. And foreign-built vehicles, mostly of the type that carry low price tags and give high fuel mileage, have scored the greatest penetration.

Now domestic car builders are manoeuvring to take over a larger slice of the market.

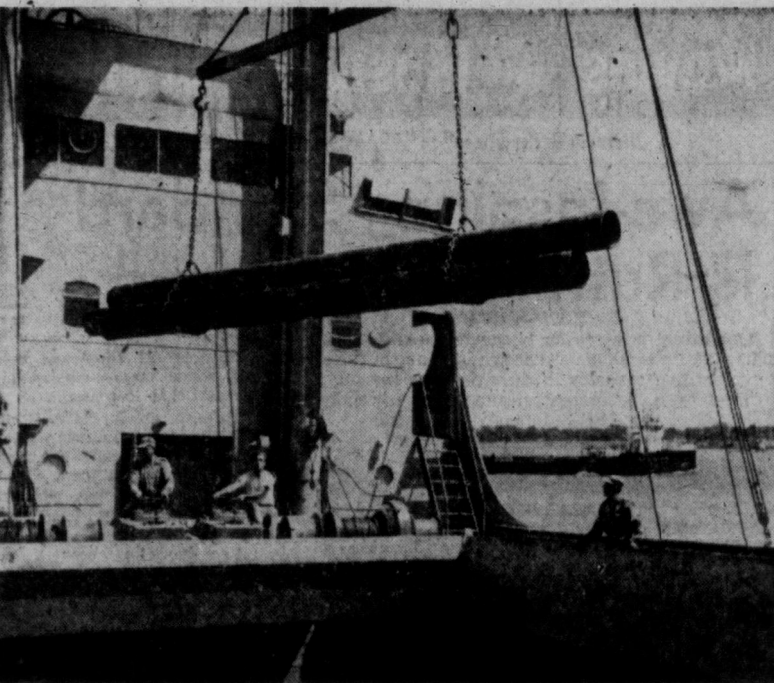

SALE UP IMPORTS

Cars that sell under $2,000 appear to be in greatest demand. Ford is stepping up its imports of vehicles built in its European factories; General Motors will start bringing in two of its leading foreign-built cars, and Japanese manufacturers plan an entry in the American market.

Chrysler is reported trying to make an arrangement with a European car maker to permit it to get into the running for small-car sales in the U.S. Metropolitan Motors, with its small Metropolitan model built in England, plans a further expansion of its smaller-car volume by reviving its American-built 100-inch wheelbase Rambler.

General Motors plans to introduce a small Vauxhall Victor and an Opel Rekord.

In all instances the price tags probably will be less than $2,000 at the port of entry. In this respect they will be somewhat higher than the German Volkswagen, the French Renault, the Swedish Volvo and others which have been appearing on the U.S. market.

1,700-MILE JOURNEY through treacherous Arctic waters to lonely Frobisher Bay awaits these 700-pound pipe lengths here being loaded into the freighter Glengarry at Montreal. Pipe is part of equipment being moved to Frobisher by Imperial Oil to service airliners flying the Polar air route from the Pacific Coast to Europe. By Oct. 2 Imperial will have facilities to store 3,360,000 gallons of high-octane aviation gasoline.

Tight Money Policy to Be Ended By Spring Says Insurance Chief

Railways Boost Freight Rate Request

MONTREAL (CP) — The Railway Association of Canada filed with the board of transport commissioners Friday an amendment to its pending application for an increase in freight rates.

The level of rates proposed under the amendment would be 10 per cent higher than the present level. Increases are also proposed of 15 cents a ton on coal and coke.

The proposed increase would not affect statutory grain rates, international rates, or import and export rates to United States ports.

These were recently increased by the board of transport commissioners. The application before the board was filed originally May 15, 1956, and was decided in part by two interim orders issued in June and December, 1956. Final hearing was scheduled for Sept. 24.

Thomson Buys Newspaper At Barrie

Barrie, Ont. (CP) — The Barrie Examiner, published three times a week since 1951, has been sold to the Thomson newspaper organization and will become a daily next year.

W. K. Walls, president and managing editor of The Examiner, announced to the staff today that negotiations have been completed for the sale and added:

"Joining the Thomson group will make it possible to expand The Examiner to daily publication next year."

Kenneth R. Thomson, president of the Thomson Company Limited, said: "It is our intention to make available necessary facilities for daily publication of The Examiner at the earliest possible date."

The Examiner was founded in 1864 and continued weekly publication until 1948 when it started twice-weekly publication. In 1951 it started publishing three times a week.

The paper has six times won the Mason trophy as the best all-round weekly in Canada.

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP) — The head of one of the world's largest corporations predicted Friday tight-money policies both in the United States and Canada will be eased by next spring.

Carroll M. Shanks, First World War private who vaulted into the presidency of the Prudential Insurance Company of America 11 years ago, anticipated also that despite economic adjustments and a scarcity of capital, Canada will show some new records this year.

The 58-year-old American insurance chief, completing a week's tour of Eastern Canada, estimated in an interview that Canada's gross national product — value of all goods and services produced — will rise to a peak $32,000,000,000 this year from $29,900,000,000 a year ago.

In 1958, Canadian production will likely show another $2,000,000,000 increase, he said. There was a shortage of investment capital, both in the U.S. and Canada, but because of Canada's great economic potential, a lot of savings were being directed to this country.

Interest rates were high, but the North American economy now was going through a "rolling adjustment" to sort of ease off the big boom "with which we busted out some years ago."

WON'T BE PAINLESS

The adjustment wouldn't be painless. It would mean some unemployment, but by next spring there should be a modest reduction in interest rates and more credit available.

Those who suggest there is a surplus of capital available in North America "are just kidding themselves," he said. "What we've got is inflation. It's our greatest problem."

"Lenin was a smart cookie. He told Communists to just sit tight and press the cold war and the democracies will destroy themselves. There is nothing so destructive as inflation."

"But inflation is not inevitable. I have a lot of faith in."

monetary controls as a means of regulating development. We've had straight inflation for some years. I don't think we put the reins to the boom fast enough. Now we've got to increase our savings. We must reduce consumption. By and large, both Canada and the U.S. are not saving enough to finance tremendous expansion."

Accountants To Amsterdam For Parley

Speakers at the congress may use English, French, German or Dutch, as provision is being made for simultaneous translation by professional interpreters on the pattern developed by the United Nations General Assembly. Representatives from all over Western Europe and from countries as far east as Burma are expected at the congress.

Members from Canadian Institutes of Chartered Accountants who will speak at the congress include J. Grant Glasco and L. G. Macpherson of Ontario, and J. A. De Lalanne of Quebec.

Store-Purchased Bread Is 'Frill' When Unemployment Hits

By DINAH KERR
How does a family get by when the breadwinner is out of work?
The nightmare of unemployment is something most families think about from time to time, and hope against hope it never happens.
But what is it like when it does happen, how do you tighten the family belt, does the grocery store carry you on credit, what about time payments?
To get the answer to some of these questions, this reporter was sent to interview a family struggling through the "no work" nightmare right now.

Forty-nine-year-old carpenter Robert Perry has been out of work for two months and he figures that's about all a man can stand.
In two months he has worked one day longshore. The rest of the time he has marked time clearing and weeding the half-acre of garden behind his home at 4445 Torquay.
"It keeps you hopping but there's no money attached to it," he said.
Mr. Perry is one of about 35 carpenters now out of work. The lay-off hit when he was working at HMC Dockyard.

"They said it would only last two weeks," he said. "Then we went back to work for one week and we've been off ever since."
In eight months since the beginning of the year, Mr. Perry has worked about three.
This last lay-off is "about all a person can take," he said. "Then you start slipping back."
Unemployment insurance of $26 to $30 a week buys groceries for the Perrys but lack of ready cash puts the bite on all family "frills" — clothes, movies, even bakery products — and some necessities, like payments on their home.

Mr. Perry "pounded every nail and dug every shovel" for his modern little home, but he is paying off the mortgage still.
"At a time like this, that money comes out of your savings," he said.

"We have some money set aside because we've made a practice of saving for emergencies since the depression days, but the money won't last forever."
Finding substitutes for the "frills" is Mrs. Perry's job.

She makes many of her own clothes, and bakes 15 loaves of bread a week, along with cakes, pies and rolls.
"With three men in the house we'd be poor if we had to buy bakery products," she said.
The Perrys haven't seen a movie in more than a year. Their relaxation and entertainment comes through friends and TV.
One son, Dean, 21, works at lubrication and car-washing at a Victoria garage. The second, Barry, 16, a high school student, has been working part time during the summer.

Both boys buy their own clothes, but neither pays board.
"We want to help them get a start in life," Mr. Perry said.
He figures it's too late to make a new start, himself.
"When you go looking for work and you're over 40, they like to look the other way," he said.
For a man who has had a lot of time to think about his future as a carpenter, Mr. Perry is still pretty optimistic.
"If the Navy gets as many contracts as they think they might, we could be back to work in September," he said.

"There's a chance that the work might carry through to the spring."
"I say that when I'm optimistic, but it's hard to be very optimistic at a time like this."
"At least my children aren't young and if a person has his own home, he's not too badly off."
So Mr. Perry will continue to work in his garden and make calls at the employment bureau, and the Carpenters' and Joiners' Union office.

venuto Road, Brentwood, with his Miss Skookum, and Bob Owens, of Colwood, on his registered quarterhorse, Tacoma Dink Echols, placed first and second, respectively, in two feature events, western working and trail classes. They were among a big entry in events at the Saanichton Fair this afternoon. Results of the western horse show of the local exhibition as well as breeding and English riding events scheduled at Saanichton on Monday will be published by The Times on Tuesday. Breeding classes judging starts at 10 a.m. and the riding show is scheduled for the Labor Day afternoon. Horse section of the fair is under sponsorship of Garden City Horsemen's Club, presided over by J. V. "Ved" Donaldson. Club has increased stabling and improved facilities greatly for this year's show. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

Stores Close at Noon Wednesdays Until Change Made In B.C. Laws

Stores close at noon Wednesday in Victoria from now on. No attempt will be made by the Six-Day Shopping Week Committee of merchants to test the intent of the new Municipal Act, it was announced today.

"We feel very keenly about having to revert to the former 5½-day week," said a committee spokesman.

He said the committee, "sounding out what the reaction would be at City Hall in case stores remained open on Wednesday afternoons, were informed the law would be enforced."

The Municipal Act lists only a few exceptions to the closure, effective Sept. 1.

Printing Plant Manager Feted By Colleagues

Retiring today after 40 years service with Colonist Printers, Dudley Green was honored with Mrs. Green at a reception tendered Friday night by the directors and management of Victoria Press Ltd.

Stores Close at Noon Wednesdays Until Change Made In B.C. Laws

This means that Victoria on Wednesday afternoons and Sundays as well should be closed tight by law enforcement officers, unless discrimination is to be shown. It has been apparent that some stores have been violating the 6 p.m. closing hour and the Sunday closing.

The committee feels that all merchants must obey the same law. A type of general store is developing in the area which sells prohibited products from early morning until late at night, and in some instances, on Sundays.

The spokesman said shoppers were strongly behind six-day shopping, and on a recent day

UNSKILLED LABOR BOOSTS UNEMPLOYED RANKS

Unskilled labor accounted for most of the increase in Victoria's unemployment list during the past week as it grew by 47 to a total of 2,390.

Registrations at the National Employment Service office showed an increase of 69 men out of work while 22 women, previously unemployed, found jobs to moderate the increase.

Meanwhile, Victoria's Winter Employment Committee is swinging into action with a "Plan-Now" campaign to maintain employment levels through the winter.

The campaign, opened earlier this week, is aimed at impressing householders and employers with the need for scheduling many types of work and repairs for winter months, when labor is available and the employment needed.

Current figures are 1,744 men and 646 women unemployed.

A detailed examination shows that in the skilled trades the variation from last week is very small," reported NES manager J. H. Fox.

"However, in the unskilled laboring group, there was a general increase with the largest number (25) being added to the construction labor file."

Largest number of openings is in the professional engineering field.

The number of carpenters seeking work shows no change. Truck drivers are up one, construction machinery operators are down two, stationary engineers remain constant and painters are up three.

Employment conditions for women have changed little. An increase in the number of domestic, sales clerk and waitress jobs has been countered by a slight easing in demand for qualified stenographers.

Volume of work appeared holding a steady level and even showed signs of increasing in some industries but so far there has not been much impact on the unemployed list.

LABOR LOOKS BACK ON MANY DISPUTES BUT FEW STRIKES

By PETER MURRAY
Organized labor in Canada and the U.S. will take stock Monday.

In most countries of the world "Labor Day" is May 1. Here it is the first Monday in September.

The idea was launched in the U.S. by the Knights of Labor in 1882 and was recognized by the lawmakers as a legal holiday in 1894. Canada followed soon after.

In British Columbia, labor will look back on a busy summer in which there were many contract disputes but few strikes.

At the height of the crisis in early July, close to 60,000 workers were threatening to walk off their jobs. Many thousands more would have been idled.

FISHERMEN TIED UP
Only one large group—5,500 coast salmon net fishermen—did go out. They tied up their boats June 22 and returned July 10 after winning concessions from the cannery.

The fishermen have staged similar walkouts at the start of the season in recent years.

Most critical threat to the province's economy was the dispute in the coast logging industry.

After contract talks broke down and a conciliation board headed by former attorney-general Gordon Wismer failed to bring agreement, 32,000 IWA members voted in June to take strike action.

Brought together by Premier Bennett, the two parties continued negotiations.

The end came dramatically early in the morning of July 5, just a few hours before the union's strike deadline.

BENNETT TO RESCUE
In an all-night session in a Vancouver hotel room, the premier got the operators to raise their wage increase offer to 7½ per cent.

The operators originally said depressed market conditions wouldn't allow any increase. The union started off by asking 20 per cent.

With that dispute settled, Premier Bennett turned to another in his own backyard.

Some 12,000 provincial government employees, dissatisfied with the run-around they had been getting, took the unprecedented step of threatening strike action.

When the membership of the B.C. Government Employees' Association overwhelmingly supported their executive's strike call, the government dug in.

It roused bitter resentment among the civil servants and most of the public by issuing a "strike-and-you'll-be-fired" edict.

BROADSIDES
The dispute ground on with public broadsides from both sides.

Finally the civil servants set a strike deadline of Friday, July 12, and began to distribute placards to picketers.

Then the civil servants were invited to a showdown meeting with the cabinet on Wednesday.

After the meeting, Premier Bennett announced the strike had been called off by the association after the government offered a 7½ per cent average salary increase and appointed Chief Justice Gordon Sloan to investigate civil servants' bargaining procedure.

Meanwhile, negotiations were going on in countless other industrial plants and businesses throughout the province.

THREATS
Various groups such as carpenters, electricians, construction workers and others threatened to strike but settlements were hammered out at the last moment.

Nurses in three provincial hospitals also declared they were prepared to strike for higher salaries, but the walk-outs were averted.

Much of the credit for the avoidance of strikes belongs to conciliation officers of the provincial labor department, who were kept on the go throughout the summer.

3 Sailors Hurt In Crash Into Sooke Road Gully

Three naval ratings emerged with only slight injuries when a car in which they were riding failed to round a corner and careened 30 feet into a gully at Sooke and Kangaroo Roads at 2 a.m. today.

Taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with head cuts and minor abrasions were driver of the car Dave Timms, HMC Dockyard, and passengers Jerome Davis, RCN, 610 McKenzie, and Joe Paulin, HMC Dockyard.

The car had been heading east on Sooke Road towards Victoria, and failed to make a turn on to Kangaroo Road, Sooke RCMP said.

The car, a total wreck, plunged into the gully and came to rest against a telephone pole. Passengers were later transferred from the Jubilee to Naden Hospital for further treatment.

Davis and Paulin suffered head cuts and minor abrasions, and Timms, head, face and leg cuts.

Police Warning On Phony Bills

CITY MAN HOME

Flathead's Bad Name 'Unjustified'

By HUMPHRY DAVY
"I hated coming back."

That was the sentiment of 22-year-old Marc Bell, 742 St. Patrick, University of British Columbia forestry graduate, who has just returned from a two-month expedition to the "Flathead" country, one of the most isolated areas in British Columbia.

Situated in the southeast corner of B.C., the Flathead country is being considered for development as a provincial federal park, Mr. Bell disclosed.

Mr. Bell and an English companion, John Davidson, 21, tramped hundreds of miles in the Flathead country collecting plants for the UBC botanical department and the Provincial Museum.

In all, they collected over 1,000 plants, some of which may turn out to be new species. These have yet to be identified and sorted out at UBC and by Dr. Adam Szczawinski, Museum botanist.

LOTS OF GAME
"The area abounds in big game, fish, birds, and wild flowers," Mr. Bell reports. "And the scenery is magnificent."

He described walking over acres of alpine fields covered with red, orange and yellow flowers.

"This may sound like a fish story," he said, "but in one stream we were catching Dolly Varden trout weighing between 30 and 40 pounds. 'I had never seen trout that large.'"

He said they saw plenty of grizzly and black bears.

"I GROWLED"
On one occasion, a black bear stumbled on the guy rope of their tent.

"I growled," said Mr. Bell, "and the bear scampered away."

Mr. Bell said the Flathead country unjustly suffers from a bad name.

On my way there, I was told the country was infested with ticks, and Rocky Mountain fever was prevalent," he said. "This turned out to be untrue."

FAVORS PARK
Mr. Bell said he was a 100 per cent in favor of developing the area as a federal-provincial park.

The parks division said the scheme under consideration is to incorporate the area with Waterton Park to the east in Alberta and Glacier National Park in Montana. These two parks adjoin the Flathead country.

Gang Hopes to Make Killing During 3-Day Bank Closure

Victorians were warned today to be on the lookout for a "considerable amount" of counterfeit Canadian currency, expected to be passed in the larger Canadian cities.

The warning was issued by the RCMP.

The bills, in $5, $10 and $20 denominations, are considered good counterfeits but are light in color.

BANKS CLOSED
According to information received from Ottawa, a gang of counterfeiters hopes to make a killing by passing huge sums of the phoney money while banks are closed for three successive days over the Labor Day weekend.

Two photographs of a $20 engraving plate have been found in the midway of the PNE at Vancouver.

Vancouver staff inspector Don McKay said that some of the counterfeit money has probably been passed already.

"There seems to be little doubt that there will be more of it," he said.

Victoria Detective Inspector Charles Webb has advised the public to "check closely" bills of a suspiciously light color.

"If everyone is on the lookout, our chances of tracing the money will be made much easier," he said.

300 Children In Library Reading Club

Summer reading club program at Victoria Public Library had an enrolment of more than 300 youngsters this year.

From two to 20 books each were read by 130 children below grade 3 level in the Animal Fair Reading Club.

The Swiftsure Adventure Club attracted a group of 150 going into grades 4, 5 and 6.

Another 25 registered for the junior high school students' Book Critics Club.

Highest number of loans for the year—15,000 books—were borrowed from the children's section in July.

Some 1,400 books were taken out on the vacation loan plan which allowed children going out of town to borrow 10 books each.

W. H. Bridges, Ex-Shoe Store Manager, Dies

William Henry Bridges, 84, native of Tonbridge, Kent, England, died here today after 40 years of residence in the city.

He was well known in the retail shoe trade, and for many years was employed at the Old Country Shoe Store, 635 Johnson Street, as manager.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. S. F. Miles, Victoria, and Mrs. J. S. March, Seattle; four grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 3 p.m. at Chaplin's chapel, and interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Victoria Tug Standing By Grounded Packer

Deepsea tug Sudbury of Island Tug and Barge Ltd. today was standing by the 88-foot Seattle fishpacker Malina, which went aground at Carmanah Point Thursday night.

Company officials said the big Victoria tug, accompanied by the smaller Island Planet, arrived at the scene Friday.

$50 REWARD FOR NABbing U.S. ESCAPEE

An escapee from the U.S. penitentiary at McNeil Island, Wash., may have crossed the border into Canada, city police said today.

A $50 reward is offered for capture of the man, who is 39 years of age, 155 lbs., 5' 8½" in height, has blue eyes and grey hair.

He had been serving time for interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle.

'Colorful' Thief Gets Prison Term

Donald Paul Paquette, 20, alias Joe Willows, was sentenced in city police court today to six months definite and two years less a day indeterminate in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla prison for theft of a car from a city car sales lot.

Paquette obtained the late-model car "on trial" from a Yates Street lot last May and gave his name as Joe Willows.

He headed east with the car, travelling under aliases of Williams and Willows and was picked up in Fort William, Ont., Aug. 1.

"You've had a very colorful career, Mr. Willows, haven't you?" Magistrate A. I. Thomas said before sentence.

Larger Tanks For Oil Asked By Fire Chiefs

B.C. fire chiefs in convention here Friday favored increasing the minimum on basement oil storage tanks from the present 50 gallons to 300 gallons.

B.C. is the only province in Canada where the limit is so low. If implemented, this would bring oil storage in line with other provinces.

The resolution has gone to the fire marshal's department for study. A recommendation from that department will go to the province.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Why is the Pacific blue than the Atlantic?—I.T.

A.—The Pacific is bluer because the surface color of the Atlantic is screened by greater masses of the microscopic plankton. The Pacific has a lower proportion of nitrogen compounds from decaying matter which support plankton.

Q.—Why is the laurel associated with poets?—K.F.

A.—In ancient Greece the laurel tree was considered sacred to the god Apollo, patron of poets. Hence poets who gained distinction were crowned with a wreath of laurel. Thus today we have the term "poet laureate."

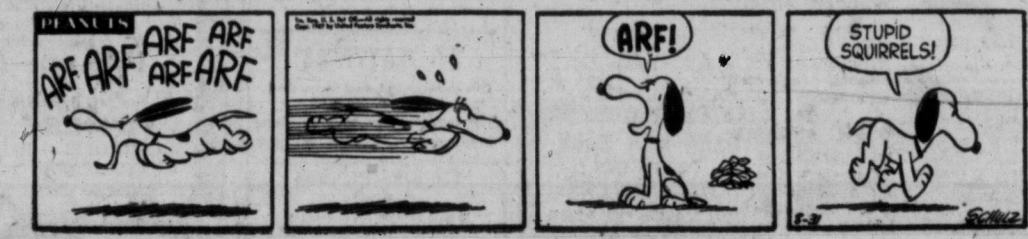

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor, questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

TUESDAY MEETINGS

North Kiwanis: Monterey Restaurant, 6:15 p.m. Frank Beebe, Provincial Museum, will speak on "Modern Zoological Parks."

Flying Over Desert Areas 'Boon' to Canadian Airman

By DAVE GANCA

GAZA, Egypt (CP) — Seven months of keeping airplanes flying through the heat and sandstorms of the Sinai Desert has been "a mighty fine experience" for Wing Cmdr. Art Byford of Ottawa.

On the eve of his departure for Paris as assistant Canadian military representative at supreme headquarters, he told of his problems as air staff officer under Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian commander of the United Nations Emergency Force.

Byford's successor, Wing Cmdr. W. C. Klassen of North Battleford, Sask., sat silently as the Ottawa lieutenant of the hectic "crash operation" which followed the creation of the international army.

A CHALLENGE
"I was happy to be tied up with this force from the beginning," Byford said. "The operation will never be routine but in recent months it has settled into more of a pattern."

The youthful-looking officer came to the job with a wealth of experience that included flying heavy bombers during the Second World War, handling transports in Korea and a stint at RCAF headquarters in Ottawa. Before his UNEF assignment he commanded the station at Centralia, Ont.

The pattern of life was always changing during his early days in Egypt. One of his first tasks was to negotiate with the Nasser government to establish corridors for his planes.

"We didn't have enough aircraft to handle all the jobs we were called on to do," he recalled. "We just had to deal with the situations as they came up."

RICH BACKGROUND
Klassen takes over after two tours of operations as a bomber pilot that included Middle East service, instructing experience and finally a transport command assignment that took him to Edmonton to command No. 435 Transport Squadron.

"It's a big change for me," he said. "A few months ago we were pushing aircraft into the western Arctic before breakup to supply the weather stations."

The UNEF air arm consists of four Otters and two DC-3s operating in the Sinai and four Naples-based C-119 Flying Boxcars. Planes and crew were contributed by Canada.

"We co-operate with all contingents and units," said Byford. "If there is a need for a rescue, a supply run or a medical evacuation, we'll do it."

VERSATILE CRAFT
The Canadian-designed and built Otters have demonstrated their versatility. Because the single-engine craft can land or take off in short distances, their pilots set down on roads, between minefields and on any adequate, level stretch of desert.

Winter sandstorms, summer heat and scarcity of navigation aids hampered the pilots. The Royal Canadian Signals have installed a small beacon at El Arish, soon to become the main UNEF air station, to enable pilots to "home" on the airfield.

Construction crews are completing a hangar and quarters at El Arish, some 60 miles from the UNEF's Gaza headquarters, and hope to have the field ready for use by the end of August.

Abu Suweir, the present base, is 150 miles from Gaza.

BIG FISHERIES
The Union of South Africa's fishing industry has an annual catch of 700,000 tons valued at $12,000,000.

He studied drama at the Westwood campus, did a role on Matinee Theatre over NBC and was claimed by Warner. Now he is learning to be a cowpoke—the hard way.

"When I did the first film, I felt ridiculous on the horse," he said. "Oh, I had been on a horse before—once when I was 10 and at camp. I remembered what to do on a horse, but the horse wouldn't co-operate. Since then the studio has given me lessons."

He has fired guns before, however. The army said to that. Will is 25 and a bachelor. He's a refreshing change from the usual young leading man of today—the intense, neurotic scenery-chewer. The guy might well start a whole new trend in acting.

Let's hope so, anyway.

OFF-BEAT TEXAN
I visited one of the fledgling western heroes—the one named Hutchins. Watching him in a courtroom scene, I observed that he was sandy-haired, slim, tall six feet even, but boot heels raise him further and slightly off-beat.

"What part of Texas are you from?" I asked.</
